FIRE DAMAGES CRESCENT DR. HOME — Fire of undetermined origin badly damaged the interior of this home belonging to Daniel Doty at 27 Crescent Dr. late last night. The Doty family was not at home at the time. The fire ate through hardwood floors. Dense smoke also added to the damage. Above is a portion of the living room. Note the gutted floors.

Fire Causes Heavy Damage to Residence

Fire caused considerable damage to the interior of the home owned by Daniel Doty at 27 Crescent Dr., Monessen, late last night.

No one was home when fire broke out above a gas furnace in the cellar of the six-year-old- one-story brick dwelling.

The blaze was discovered by a neighbor, Mrs. Andrew Onderko, 21 Crescent Dr., who was looking out a window in her home about 11:30 when she saw smoke billowing out of the Doty residence. She immediately called neighbors and firemen.

When firemen arrived the blaze had eaten through a large portion of the hardwood floors in the living and dining rooms. It burned out a linen closet and its contents, scorched walls, ceiling and furniture.

Smoke Is Dense

Firemen poured water from four giant booster pumps before extinguishing the flames. They contained the fire to the interior.

The dense smoke from burning rugs and wood forced the firefighters to use gas masks. Smoke filled the entire house.

Reports said Doty had lowered the gas furnace flame prior to making a trip to Pittsburgh where he had taken his wife for observation at a clinic. He stayed in Pittsburgh overnight and was unaware of the fire until notified sometime this morning.

The exact cause of the fire has not yet been determined, according to firemen. Damage was not estimated.

Tony Stringhill Winner in NBV Vote Recount

A court-appointed recount board has found that Democrat Tony Stringhill defeated Republican James Reed by four votes in the Nov. 5 election to retain his seat on North Belle Vernon Borough Council.

Original returns had listed Stringhill as the winner by 10 votes.

The court, upon petition, ordered the ballot boxes opened and the votes retabulated. Three attorneys were selected to recount the votes over the past weekend.

Reed gained ground in both voting precincts, but not enough to overtake Stringhill.

Stringhill's total in the first precinct was corrected from 362 votes to 352. In the second precinct his total was increased from 312 to 314.

Reed, according to original returns, received 388 in the first precinct and 276 in the second. His corrected totals were 382 in the first; and 280 in the second.

The new borough totals showed Stringhill with 666 votes compared to 662 votes for Reed.

Three other candidates won council seats by handy margins. They were William Mascara, Homer Zucconi and Charles Klisowski.

Three Men Free on Gambling Charges

MASONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — Three men were free on $500 bond on gambling charges today as the result of two raids here by county detectives and city police.

Officers said they found football pool tickets and punchboards in the establishments. Arrested at a garage Monday were John Salopek, and his brother, Andrew. Picked up in his tavern was Patrick Alexander.

Perryopolis Area Persons Injured

Two Perryopolis area persons were injured in a one-car accident last night on Route 51 near Roundtable Inn, state police reported today.

Taken to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital were Diana Fern Fisher, 17, Box 200. R. D. 1, Perryopolis, cuts about the head and body, and Charles Martinak, 20, Box 58, Perryopolis, face cuts. The girl was admitted to the hospital while Martinak was sent home.

Police reports said the car in which the two were riding failed to make a curve, went out of control and slammed into a utility pole.

Three Clergymen Named to Direct Nativity Scene

Three Monessen clergymen have been named to the committee in charge of the life-sized Nativity Scene to be located on Fifth St. between Donner Ave. and Railroad Alley.

Ministers from the city's three major Christian faiths have agreed to serve on the committee. They are Rev. Martin J. O'Toole, pastor of St. Leonard's Roman Catholic Church; Rev. John Govrusik, pastor of St. John The Divine Russian Orthodox Church; and Rev. Paul Trout, pastor of St. John Lutheran Church and president of the Monessen Ministerial Association.

The Nativity Scene will be unveiled on Dec. 11 at 7:30 p.m. at which time the story of Christ will be narrated.

The huge tableau depicting the first Christmas will be erected by the Merchants Division of the Monessen Chamber of Commerce.

Rinard Woods, chairman of the Merchants holiday promotion, has invited church organizations to sing Christmas music at the Nativity Scene. All interested groups are asked to make reservations at the Chamber office.

Community Fund 'Mop Up' Group Meeting Tonight

A special "mop up" committee of the Monessen Community Fund will meet tonight to make assignments for its all-out effort to put the 1957 campaign "over the top."

Headed by Councilman John Kotch Jr., the "mop-up committee" will visit all non-contributors and those who have not donated a "fair share" gift.

The committee will include members of the Community Fund board as well as directors of the Chamber of Commerce.

Tonight's meeting will take place at 6:30 o'clock in the office of Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of Monessen schools.

Community Fund Chairman Michael Skirpan has announced that the current drive is still $4,000 short of its goal of $29,975.

The "mop up" committee hopes to make up this deficit, Skirpan said.

School Board Reorganization Held Here; New Member Sworn

The Monessen School Board swore in two newly-elected members and elected officers at its annual reorganization meeting last night.

Taking the oath as directors were Dr. Joseph M. Dudas Sr. and Emil T. Beck.

Dr. Dudas, who was appointed to fill a two-year vacancy in 1943, began his third full six-year term, or 15th year, last night. Beck was elected to his first six-year term in the Nov. 5 general election. Beck succeeds Romeo Furio, who did not seek reelection.

The board then elected Nicholas Cullen president, Alexander Kachmarik, vice president, and John Lancas, secretary. Lancas is the retiring president.

The secretary's position, which is rotated every year, pays an annual salary of $1,200.

Dan Myshin was reappointed solicitor at a yearly salary of $1,200. Myshin first was appointed in September when David H. Weiss resigned the post following his appointment as a Westmoreland County judge.

Following the reorganization session, the board had its annual dinner served by home economic students and then held its regular December meeting.

The only important matter of business was the decision to invest from $100,000 to $300,000 in United States Treasury bills or U.S. certificates for a period of 30 or 60 days.

According to Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent, the district has a balance of $480,000 in the general fund. Of this amount, $200,000 will not be required for expenditures until Jan. 14, and $100,000 until Feb. 14.

Rather than let the money "lay idle" in banks, the board, on the recommendation of its treasurer, Fred C. Stockus, who is also a Mellon Bank official, decided to invest the money and "receive whatever interest we can."

The board will invest the money for a 30 to 60-day period "if possible and if the interest rate is attractive." Stockus was instructed to "investigate the possibility" and make a report today or tomorrow.

In other business, the board hired Mrs. Sylvia Whiten as an elementary teacher at the annual starting salary of $3,400; accepted the application of William Paul Pavlovich, Monessen, for a position to teach mathematics, chemistry and biology, and authorized Dr. Pallone to purchase supplies and sell unused desks and chairs.

County GOP Leaders Are Still Looking for Opponent for Dent

A manhunt for a Republican candidate for Congress in the special Westmoreland County election on Jan. 21 still had not produced a likely prospect at noon today.

And time is running out on party leaders conducting the search. The GOP county committee is scheduled to meet in Greensburg Friday night to nominate the candidate.

County Democratic Chieftains have already tapped State Sen. John H. Dent of Jeannette as their choice to succeed the late Rep. Augustine B. Kelley, whose service of 17 years in Congress was ended by death recently.

Democratic State Chairman Joseph M. Barr said in Harrisburg today that party leaders in Westmoreland County have agreed "unanimously" on Dent. Their choice will be confirmed at a meeting of the state executive committee in Harrisburg Dec. 9.

National Assistance

Meanwhile top Republicans in the county, at the urging of State Chairman George I. Bloom, are trying desperately to come up with an attractive candidate.

If they do, it is reliably reported, Bloom has promised extensive state and national campaign assistance in an effort to take the Westmoreland seat, held by Democrats for about 25 years, for the GOP.

John R. Brown Jr., regional director for the eastern states of the National Republican Congressional Committee, who works closely with Bloom, has been spending considerable time in Westmoreland County since Kelley's death. He is said to be assisting county leaders in their efforts to draft a top-flight candidate.

County Chairman Edwin A. Swink said this morning the "draft board" has about given up on Glenn F. Cook, Ligonier real estate man and former register of wills, who was said to be the No. 1 choice.

Cook has not been active in politics in recent years, but is still interested. He is understood to have told Swink and others, however, that his wife will not agree to his making the congressional race.

Another contact with Cook was being made at noon today, it was reported, but one source close to the situation said it was doubtful the answer would be different.

Costello Named

The latest name to be mentioned in connection with the GOP nomination is that of Patrick B. Costello, young Greensburg attorney. Costello is not widely known except in the county seat area, but one party leader today described him as "exactly the type of man that is most needed in politics and government today."

As the Friday deadline neared, it became more and more possible that the GOP nomination might go by default to Herbert O. Morrison, Scottdale news broadcaster and two-time loser to Kelley.

Morrison is willing and anxious to run and he is well liked by Republican leaders. But they doubt that he has "the stuff" to beat an old "pro" like Dent. Morrison's showings against Kelley in 1954 and

Two Arrests by Monessen Police

The Monessen police docket listed two arrests today.

Elton Davis, 34, of 1134 Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen, was arrested last night for driving a motor vehicle while under suspension. He will be arraigned later.

Richard Neri, 19, Monongahela, was picked up at his home yesterday for failure to pay fine and costs for a motor violation. The youth, who had ignored a summons, now must pay a total of $40 instead of the original fine of $15.

Shoppers Urged To Ask for Parking Tokens

Monessen shoppers were advised today "to be sure and ask for parking tokens" after making purchases at city stores.

The advice came from A. Edward Wilen, chairman of the Parking and Traffic Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Wilen reminded that a purchase of $2 or more entitles the shopper to a parking token.

"It seems that only about one out of every eight shoppers are requesting their tokens," Wilen said. "It's difficult to understand why."

Wilen denied rumors that there was a token shortage. Earlier the city's Parking Authority had reported that 10,000 tokens were apparently being 'hoarded' by district residents.

"The Chamber has purchased 10,000 additional tokens to make up for this loss," Wilen reported. "About 4,000 of these tokens were distributed last night and there is definitely no shortage."

It was pointed out that parking space is generally available at the downtown parking plazas even during peak shopping hours.

"By using their tokens, shoppers will be able to park without charge and with greater convenience," Wilen said. "It just does not seem possible that Monessen shoppers aren't interested in this program of free parking."

Wilen conceded that some merchants are not "volunteering" the tokens. However he pointed out that sales personnel are sometimes too busy to think of the tokens.

"We'd like our customers to remind us that they want their parking tokens," he added.

A year ago, the Chamber of Commerce purchased 30,000 tokens. With the additional purchase, there are now about 40,000 available for distribution.

Each token is worth a half-hour's parking in the conveniently-located plazas.

U. S. Hopes to Send Satellite Out Tomorrow

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP —Navy technicians put the finishing touches today on a slender rocket carrying America's hopes to duplicate Russia's leap into space.

Everything was reported going according to plan for Wednesday's big shoot.

Latest information, all unofficial, was that the Navy's Vanguard missile might be fired at any hour or minute from 5 a.m. until dusk off lonely and windy Cape Canaveral.

The 72-foot-long, three - stage rocket will attempt to place a six-inch baby moon into orbit. It is a tiny thing compared to Russia's second, dog-bearing Sputnik, but it will send back a radio signal, if successfully orbited, to let the world know the United States has met the challenge.

The Vanguard test could be preceded today by the firing of a less spectacular missile, possibly a Snark, which is a long-range Ramjet device hugging the earth's atmosphere at a speed slightly below that of sound.

There was to be an almost unprecedented pre-shoot briefing for reporters this afternoon conducted by J. Paul Walsh, deputy director of the Navy's progressive Vanguard project at Patrick Air Force Base. Patrick is the base in charge of all missile testing at nearby Canaveral.

Bauer Reported Heart Victim

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Westmoreland County Judge Edward G. Bauer, 60, was reported in fair condition at Germantown Hospital today after suffering an apparent heart attack during a weekend visit to his son, Edward Jr. here.

Judge Bauer, a Democrat, was elected to his second 10-year term on the Common Pleas Court bench last Nov. 5. He previously had served one term in the Legislature and two terms as Westmoreland County district attorney.

Edward said the judge was stricken with a coronary condition Sunday during a visit to the son's home in suburban Wynnewood. He said his father was "doing as well as can be expected."

Council Breaks Down Figures In Bond Issue

Approximately $165,000 of the $225,000 councilmanic bond issue passed Saturday by City Council will be spent for future improvements and the remaining $60,000 is for money already spent, according to the breakdown of figures made public today.

Planned improvements call for $95,000 to be spent for streets, $55,000 for sewers and $15,000 for acquiring land for public library purposes.

The City will pay $75,000 as its share for the current widening and repaving of Schoonmaker Ave. from near Sixth St. to 17th St. Another $20,000 will be spent for paving the remainder of Athalia Ave.

Money for sewers will be spent as follows:

Reeves Ave., $13,000; Helen Ave., $12,000; Boston Ave., $7,000; DelRose Ave., $7,000; River St., $2,500; Jackson Dr. and State Rd., $13,000, and Columbus Dr., $500.

Council has $15,000 set aside to purchase land adjoining the proposed site of the new library on Donner Ave. between Third and Fourth Sts.

The $60,000 already spent resulted when property owners, most of them in the Pacific Blvd.-Columbus Dr. area, failed to pay promised paving lien obligations during 1956.

Council had to borrow money to pay bills it had expected to pay from the lien obligations. Council is making plans to collect the delinquent liens immediately.

Bauer Spends $6,587 In Successful Bid

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—The New Kensington Democratic City Committee filed its expense account for the Nov. 5 election today with the Westmoreland County Board of Elections listing receipts and expenditures of $3,535.30.

In another account, Judge Edward G. Bauer, successful Democratic candidate for a second term on the Common Pleas Court bench, listed contributions of $6,402.10 and expenditures of $6,587.90.

Adlai Sits in on Parley; Sharing of Secrets Are Discussed

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower and his advisers laid before congressional leaders today proposals for helping the Western world meet Russia's space-age challenge.

These proposals called for increased foreign aid and defense spending, including more money for missiles; presidential authority to share nuclear weapons secrets with other countries, and other steps to strengthen the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Adlai E. Stevenson, who sat in on the first part of the White House meeting with key congressmen, said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission discussed new laws that may be necessary to implement "certain proposals that the administration intends to present in Paris."

He was referring to administration plans to inform its Allies at the NATO summit meeting in Paris Dec. 16-18 that it will seek congressional approval for an exchange of nuclear weapons secrets. The President already has authority for swapping such information in other weapons fields.

Discuss Defenses

Stevenson told reporters on leaving the White House that the first 90 minutes of the meeting with congressional leaders were devoted to overall plans for beefing up NATO defenses.

Administration sources have said the United States at Paris also will call for establishment of American missile bases in Europe, creation of an atomic weapons stockpile under NATO control and closer political cooperation among NATO allies.

Stevenson also said Eisenhower wants him to attend the Paris meeting as a member of the U.S. delegation. He said the President gave "no indication" whether he himself plans to attend, as he intended to do before suffering his mild stroke Nov. 25. The White House has left open the possibility that Eisenhower will go. The decision will be up to the President's doctors.

Stevenson, who has been serving as an adviser to Dulles on plans for the NATO conference, said the President "looked very well."

Last Met in 1953

Today was the first time Eisenhower and his unsuccessful Democratic opponent for the presidency in 1952 and 1956 had met face to face since October, 1953.

The bipartisan congressional group numbered over 30. There were at least two late arrivals—House Democratic leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.). They came in after the meeting had begun.

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, also were present.

Ike Asks Adlai To NATO Parley, Stevenson Says

WASHINGTON (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said today President Eisenhower wants him to attend the NATO summit meeting in Paris Dec. 16-18.

Stevenson said after a White House conference that he is deferring a decision for a week or 10 days—until he completes his consultative work at the State Department.

He has been serving as a consultant to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on NATO meeting matters.

Stevenson, who opposed Eisenhower unsuccessfully in the 1952 and 1956 elections, participated in the first phase of the President's meeting this morning with bipartisan congressional leaders and members of the cabinet.

Stevenson was asked afterward if the President invited him to join the U.S. delegation at Paris.

"He indicated he would be very happy if I would be able to go to Paris," Stevenson replied.

"Can you go?" a reporter asked.

"The matter has not been decided," Stevenson said. "I probably won't make a decision until my work here is completed in another week or 10 days."

Later, speaking before television cameras, Stevenson said:

"I don't know whether I have been invited or not. The President said he would be very happy to have me go to Paris."

Local Building Sold to Haury Construction Co.

A three-story brick building at 821 Donner Ave., Monessen, has been sold to Robert and Eleanor Haury of Monessen by Mrs. Bertha Hagerson of Washington, Pa., it was announced today.

The structure, which covers four lots on the north side of Donner, is adjacent to the CIO Building. It is now occupied by a wholesale branch of Potter-McCune Co., a grocery firm, and as a warehouse of the Stern Furniture Co.

Haury, a building contractor, said the Potter-McCune occupancy will continue, but he plans to use the remainder of the structure to store building materials and house the offices of Haury Construction Co.

The sale price was $40,000. The transaction was handled by the Skirpan Agency.

Meany to Challenge Move To Hold Line on Pay Boosts

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany today readied a challenge to a proposal to hold the line next year on wages of millions of construction, steel and other workers.

Meany, briefed by AFL - CIO economists, was prepared to argue that high wages for union members benefited the entire nation and bolstered the economy.

The surprising suggestion for a moratorium on pay boosts came from Richard J. Gray, president of the Building Trades Department of the AFL-CIO.

The moratorium question posed an unexpected problem for Meany, who was busy attempting to line up support for expulsion of the Teamsters Union on corruption charges.

Gray also urged the building trades unions to vote against ousting the Teamsters. He said it would be "un-American" to expel the Teamsters on "unproven charges."

Gray said that if the building trades unions avoided demands for wage boosts next year they would help halt the rise in the cost of living and assure more jobs for their members.

The construction industry, he said, was hard-hit by the administration's tight-money policy and this led to unemployment of union craftsmen.

Meany's answer to Gray's plan was expected to come in appearances before the union label or maritime trades departmental conventions.

The AFL-CIO president also planned to address the building trades group this afternoon but his aides said he planne to tackle its jurisdictional complaints at that time.

Resolutions calling for secession from the AFL-CIO are before the Building Trades convention but there is little chance of their passage, informed sources said.

The building unions are angry because Meany refused to take their side in a dispute with industrial unions over job rights in factory addition and alterations.

But few leaders of building trades unions showed enthusiasm for the wage boost moratorium.

Painters President L. M. Raftery called it "taking bread and butter away from building tradesmen." Carpenters chief M. A. Hutcheson and electricians' President Gordon Freeman pointed out many labor contracts include automatic wage hikes in 1958.

Bricklayers' boss Harry C. Bates favored it "if we have a continuance of the tight money." Plumbers President Peter Schoemann and lathers' leader Lloyd A. Mashburn agreed with Gray but excluded areas where "substandard" wages are paid.

UN Chief Begins Talks With Leaders in Israel

Mount Scopus Blockade Will Be Big Issue

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)— A noncommittal Dag Hammarskjold began talks today with Israeli leaders on the latest border flare-up with Jordan A. Jordanian blockade of Mount Scopus appeared to be the outstanding issue.

The U.N. Secretary General talked for two days with King Hussein of Jordan, Premier Ibrahim Hashim and Foreign Minister Samir Rifai Sunday and Monday but a joint communique gave no indication of major progress in the latest Mideast trouble.

The communique said the Jordan government wished to maintain fullest cooperation with the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization but it left unanswered the question whether Hammarskjold had bowed to a Jordan demand he oust truce supervisor Byron Leary, a U.S. Marine colonel, on charge he was "partial" to Israel.

The communique said the discussions also covered the difficulties recently arisen in respect to the Israeli convoy to Mount Scopus — but it added that with the Jordanian views clarified Hammarskjold will not undertake further steps intended to resolve the problem.

The Mount Scopus problem boiled down to this: the armistice agreement permitted Israel to supply and maintain an enclave in the Jordan sector of Jerusalem and convoys have proceeded to the area twice weekly without trouble.

Last week Jordan halted a convoy on the grounds that it was carrying prohibited gasoline. Jordan said the gasoline was intended for machinery to be used in fortifying the enclave within Jordan territory. Israel flatly denied this and insisted on the right to go through.

Israeli sources said Israel would insist on this view in the talks today between Hammarskjold and Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion and Foreign Minister Golda Meir. Israel also has resisted a Jordanian demand that Hammarskjold visit the Mount Scopus area to see for himself if the area is being fortified.

Would Require Peace Officers Take Examinations

The Westmoreland County Magistrates and Constables Association has unanimously approved a resolution which, in effect, would require that all aldermen, justices of the peace, constables and deputy constables pass a qualification examination before being permitted to lift their commissions.

The Association plans to forward the resolution to the state Assembly for possibe legislative action.

Joseph B. Palangio, secretary of the county group, also reminded members that a school of newly-elected officials of the minor judiciary will be held this month at the courthouse in Greensburg. Anyone interested in enrolling in these classes is requested to contact Palangio immediately.

The 15-week course will be conducted by Edward Doran Jr., solicitor for the Association.

AIKEN, S.C. (UP)—Three soldiers who died at a motel here Sunday of carbon monoxide poisoning were identified by Army authorities at Fort Gordon Ga., Monday. They were Rodney Davidson, 18, of Corpus Christi, Tex.; Norman Robert, 18, San Diego, Calif., and Edward L. Lloyd, 22, Detroit, Mich.

'Pocket Baby Rocket' Fascinates Scientists

NEW YORK (UP)—What fascinated the nation's assembled rocket experts today was no fiery monster capable of rising hundreds of miles from the earth, but a tiny "pocket rocket" which a small boy could carry around in his pants—but shouldn't.

Dr. J. W. Rossen, of the Atlantic Research Corporation which developed this rocket baby, disclosed that it is going to play a critical role in separating the third stage—the orbiting stage—from the "Vanguard" rocket which is expected to launch the U.S. satellite this week.

He was addressing fellow rocket technicians at the annual meeting of the American Rocket Society. The "pocket rocket," he said, is only 4.8 inches long and 1.5 inches in diameter. It weighs only six-tenths of a pound.

But this little giant gives off powerfully thrusting fire for exactly one second—until its fuel is consumed. The force of this thrust adds up to the power of a truck.

Rossen, who is head of his corporation's rocket ballistic group, explained that the third stage of "Vanguard" is attached to a "turning platform" which, in turn, is attached to the head of the second stage. Two of his babies are attached to this platform.

Just before the third stage is to be detached from the second stage, the babies are fired. Their mighty thrust sets the third stage to spinning at a great rate, and the spin is essential to stabilize it along the calculated course that will put our Sputnik to circling the earth.

Two more babies are attached to the second stage. At the vital moment of separation, they are fired and they fire backward, that is, back toward the earth. The effect is to brake the second stage. It slows drastically and the third stage shoots on upward.

Only then is the rocket fuel in the third stage ignited. What the little giant has done here is to prevent a collision between second stage and third stage at the instant of separation which could ruin the operation.

County

1956 were not out of the ordinary.

The Republicans, including Bloom and Brown, are said to feel that the "right man" might pull an upset and defeat Dent whose political fortunes in recent years include one defeat (for county commissioner) and another very close shave.

It would have to be a big upset, however. The Democrats have a two-to-one registration majority and have just come through another smashing election victory, in which they won three judgeships, the district attorney's office and all the other "row" offices of the courthouse. Presumably the organization would go down the line for Dent.

However, despite the "unanimity" mentioned by Barr, there is noticeable lack of enthusiasm for Dent among some active Democrats. Dent has been sparring behind the scenes for months with Gov. George M. Leader, who wants to go to the U. S. Senate next year. There has even been talk that Dent might join an anti-Leader statewide ticket headed by Lt. Gov. Roy Furman as a candidate for governor. Furman also is on the "outs" with Leader.

So at least part of the "unanimity" for Dent for Congress is believed by some observers to be due to a desire by some Democratic bigwigs to get him out of the statewide picture.

The successful candidate in the Jan. 21 election will serve in Congress until Jan. 3, 1959. Candidates for the full congressional term of two years will be nominated by the voters of both parties in primaries next May.

Thus if Dent should be elected to the unexpired Kelley term next month and wanted to remain in Congress, he would have to run again in May and if successful then, repeat the contest with a Republican nominee in November.

This is one of the drawbacks which makes the job in Congress unattractive to many men even though it is a position of considerable power and honor with a salary of $22,500 a year, plus allowances.

don B. Johnson—arrived together smiling but uncommunicative.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, declined to comment on the missiles program as he entered the conference. He said he doubted he would have anything to say after the meeting ended.

Administration sources said the President and his "team" would outline to the congressional leaders a 39-40 billion dollar defense budget, including more money for missiles. They also said a foreign aid request for next year of around four billion dollars, half a billion more than this year's program, would be discussed.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. predicted in advance of today's meeting that defense spending for the fiscal year starting next July 1 will run ahead of this year's peacetime record of about 72 billion.

Stevenson was expected to leave the meeting after discussion of the NATO plans. Informed sources said he is expected to attend the Paris NATO meeting if final administration proposals still meet with his general approval.

The conferees planned to go into other foreign policy questions, the U. S. defense program, foreign aid, foreign trade and the U.S. Information Agency. A second White House conference will be held exclusively with GOP Congressional leaders Wednesday on the administration's domestic program.

President Eisenhower, with his doctors' approval, elected to preside over at least part of today's meeting as he did over one hour and 40 minutes of a two hour and 40-minute cabinet meeting Monday that helped lay the groundwork for Congressional meetings today and Wednesday.

Eisenhower also conferred with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy after Monday's cabinet session, as well as underscoring the degree of his recovery by practicing golf shots on the White House lawn for 15 minutes.

87 Flee Blaze in Community Center

PHILADELPHIA (UP) —Seven youths were trapped for a time Monday night and 80 others were led to safety as a four-alarm fire broke out in a mid-city community center.

Four of the trapped boys went to the rear of the four-story structure and leaped to a third floor roof where they were helped down ladders to safety. The three others suffered smoke inhalation until they were rescued from the fourth floor by firemen.

The three boys who suffered smoke inhalation were treated at Hahnemann Hospital. They were identified as Stephen Solecki, 10, his brother, Roman, 12, and Stanislaus Palis, 9. Stephen was detained for observation.

The community center, directed by the Methodist Church's City Mission Society, was busy with youth activities at the time the blaze broke out.

Amelio Gaudulupe, the caretaker, and his wife, Bernice, were driven from their apartment inside the building. Mrs. Guadulupe was treated for shock.

Thomas Kaukeano, 24, a youth director, led 45 boys from a basketball game on the second floor to safety after discovering the blaze. He told firemen he first ran to the fourth floor to warn the others and returned to the second floor.

After leading the 45 boys to safety he saw the trapped seven boys at a fourth floor window. He told them to go to the rear and leap to the three-story extension of the building. Four of the boys followed his instructions and were rescued when Kaukeano shoved a ladder against the building.

The elder Solecki and Palis boys remained at the window when Stephen collapsed from smoke inhalation. They were rescued by firemen who raised a ladder to the window.

Firemen, who fought the blaze for an hour before bringing it under control, said the fire apparently started on the third floor where it was fed by paint used in the remodeling of one of the rooms. The third and fourth floors were heavily damaged.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS TAKE OATH — Dr. Joseph Dudas and Emil Beck, who were elected to the Monessen Board of Education last month, take their oath of office during the Board's reorganization meeting last night. State Highways Secretary Hits Legislature Action on Gas Tax

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Highways Secretary Lewis M. Stevens said today the Legislature seriously hampered the Commonwealth's ability to take part in federal aid road projects when it reduced the gasoline tax to five cents.

Stevens, in his first exclusive interview since taking over the department two months ago, told the United Press the state was unable to "take maximum advantage" of federal aid because loss of the extra one cent a gallon tax deprived the department of about 30 million dollars annually.

He pinpointed the loss as being felt immediately in the Highway and Bridge Authority and in the future in federal aid programs where the government foots 90 or 50 per cent of the construction bills.

The authority was forced to cut back its program from 60 to 40 million dollars, Stevens said. He also contended that if the tax money was still coming into the department, it could have been used to gain approval of federal aided projects.

He indicated the impact was heaviest in the primary and secondary systems where the government shares construction costs equally with the state.

Contracts To Set Record

However, Stevens said highway construction would continue at a record pace in the state. Next year contracts are expected to go over the 200 million mark set during 1957, the greatest in history. But the construction includes several projects under the federal interstate system where the government picks up 90 per cent of the tab.

Pennsylvania's share of the 41,000 miles of Congress allocated highways under the interstate system is just about used up. The state now has 1,545 miles in the planning stage, approved or under construction. Still to be added are a 30 mile stretch to connect Washington, Pa. with the West Virginia line and a section of Lombard St. in Philadelphia as an elevated link between the Schuylkill and Delaware expressways.

Stevens said there were other sections of the state where four-lane expressways were needed, but that it was doubtful if additional interstate projects could be added until Congress authorized more mileage.

The highways head also said:

—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission was the best method of operation for the toll road until the bonds were paid off and the highway made a free facility. The toll agency could not operate as efficiently with an executive director and no commissioners.

—Appointment of a first deputy as a "right hand man" and formation of a Planning and Research Division will help the department adequately "plan for the future." The appointee, announced Monday, is Henry B. Harral, former Philadelphia streets commissioner.

59 Coroner's Cases in County

The Westmoreland County Coroner's office handled 59 cases during November, Coroner Stephen D. Yoney, Monessen, reported today.

His report listed eight traffic deaths, five suicides, one murder, three deaths resulting from falls, one fatal mine accident and one accidental death from o gunshot wound.

Heart disease continued to be the biggest killer, claiming 27 lives. Two deaths were caused by cerebral hemorrhages and one from acute alcoholism.

His report said 44 inquests were held and two autopsies performed.

The list showed that 82 males died, 30 women and three children.

Pittsburgh Lad Shot, Killed by State Trooper

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Paul Misencik, 14, Pittsburgh, was shot and fatally wounded Monday night by a state trooper who said the boy tried to run him down with a stolen automobile after a 17-mile high-speed chase.

According to state police, Trooper Homer L. Redd spotted a car reported stolen earlier in the evening at Braddock and gave chase in his police car at speeds up to 100 miles an hour.

Near Armagh on Route 22, police said, Misencik slowed the stolen car to a near halt and Redd got out believing the car was stopping. Suddenly, police reported, Misencik pulled ahead, swung the car around and headed for the trooper.

Redd stepped back and fired a single shot as the car passed. The bullet struck Misencik in the head and he was pronounced dead at Lee Hospital here 10 minutes after admission.

With Misencik in the stolen car was Anthony Machi, a classmate of Misencik at St. John's School in Pittsburgh. He was not injured.

Rocket Fishing

FLEETWOOD, England (UP—The crewmen of a British trawler reported after a fishing trip today that they caught a rocket—and threw it back. Edward Hood, skipper of the trawler Gula, said the plastic rocket was caught in the nets. He said the rocket's head fell off and displayed wires and mechanism. He said they threw it back because "we did not risk making a close examination."

"IT WAS A NICE TRY, BUT . . ." seems to sum up public opinion about competitive cars attempting to equal the styling and features of the Swept-Wing 58. They tried to get as low, but had to lower the roof to do it. (Less headroom, same high, boxy, cooped-up look.) Their windshields got smaller, while ours got bigger. Most of them still don't have Total-Contact Brakes to assure smooth, even, safe stops when needed. Nor do they offer push-button TorqueFlite, the proven automatic transmission, and Constant-Control power steering that works full time—not part time as some other systems do. And Dodge no-sway, no-dip Torsion-Aire is standard equipment. (Bus-type air springs offered by some cars cost well over $100.00 extra.) So compare all the 1958 models with Dodge. We think you'll agree: Other cars are catching on, but they can't catch up.

Select Watreas Jurors

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP) — Two jurors who told the court they believed in capital punishment were selected today in the murder trial of Joseph Watreas, 29, Masontown miner charged with strangling an elderly grocer.

Mrs. Ruby P. King of Uniontown and Mrs. Dorothy B. Blaney of Perryopolis were seated as the 8th and 9th jurors despite the fact they believed in the death penalty. Both defense and Commonwealth attorneys offered no objections.

The morning session was devoted to examination of 13 veniremen. Eleven were dismissed for various reasons.

Seven jurors were selected Monday as the trial got underway in Fayette County Court. Watreas, who has pleaded innocent, is being tried for the murder of Alvie Partridge, 81, in the victim's Masontown store last July 29.

During preliminary questioning, each prospective juror was asked by Deputy Clerk of Courts John Kondrla if they had "conscientious scruples on the subject of capital punishment" which would prevent "you from returning a verdict of murder in the first degree, the penalty for which may be death?"

If the reply was yes, Asst. Dist. Atty. David E. Cohen then would ask 'Are your scruples so strong they would prevent you from fixing the penalty at death even though the crime is proven beyond a reasonable doubt?"

Jurors Called

The jurors seated when court adjourned Monday were Eugene Marciniak, Grindstone; Mrs. Edna Bailey, Searights; Mrs. Edith Dunston, Connellsville; Mrs. Joan Borish, Isabella; David J. Townsend, Fairchance; Mrs. Henrietta Rupp, Uniontown, and Mrs. Lola Migrock, Banning.

The prosecution had used five of its 20 peremptory challenges and the defense four. The state had used 29 challenges for cause, based mostly on scruples against capital punishment, and the defense one.

Partridge, his hands and feet bound, was found strangled with a piece of "shotfire wire" of the type used in mine blasting. No money was taken from the store, leading authorities to believe the slayer was frightened away before he could rob his victim.

Watreas, married and the father of two children, was arrested in Florida two weeks after Partridge was found dead.

County College Head for Pupils Paying More

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Governor's Commission on Higher Education opened a second day of conferences today with state educators and school administrators after hearing a warning that students and their parents must bear a larger share of the financial responsibility for college training.

The commission, in a series of meetings with groups of private and public educators from throughout the Commonwealth, is seeking recommendations for a revision of its unsuccessful 1957 legislative program for the expansion of Pennsylvania colleges and universities.

The Rev. William G. Ryan, president of Seton Hill College, Greensburg, was one of several educators who urged Monday that students pay more of the growing cost of a higher education.

A college degree, the Rev. Ryan said, has been estimated to be worth about $100,000 in additional earning power to its holder. By state subsidies and by the lower salaries paid teachers, many students receive the degree "practically for nothing," he said.

"Why should the state or colleges give the student $100,000," he said. "We must get it across to the people of the United States that the opportunity for a higher education does not mean the opportunity for a free higher education."

NEW YORK (UP)—The nation's high temperature reported Monday was 81 degrees at Santa Maria, Calif. The low early today was 10 below at International Falls, Minn.

Mediators Meet With Principals In Trolley Strike

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Federal and state mediators met today with negotiators for the striking Pittsburgh Railways Co. employes.

The mediators planned to confer with company officials later in the day in another effort to resolve differences in the city's 51-day transit strike.

There were prospects the union may submit a counter-proposal to management's most recent offer which could result in resumption of joint bargaining talks.

The company offer, calling for a three-year contract with wage increases totaling 26 cents an hour spread over the life of the pact, was rejected overwhelmingly by the strikers last week.

Meanwhile, Joseph W. Feldman of the Golden Triangle Assn. said union leaders had turned down an association proposal to operate free bus service into the downtown area. The association had planned to operate between 50 and 60 buses during off-peak hours during the day and evenings.

Named to Head Features Syndicate

NEW YORK (UP)— Fred J. Green, superintendent of bureaus of United Press, has been appointed to represent the United Features Syndicate on the Pacific Coast. The announcement was made today by Laurence Rutman, vice president and general manager of the syndicate.

The syndicate is expanding in the West to meet the tremendous growth there, Rutman said, and Green will work with Frank B. Knapp who for many years has represented the syndicate in that area.

More Light Needed On City Program

THE MONESSEN City Council has announced a tentative financial program for next year that seems to us to call for some further reflection at the City Hall before being finally adopted.

The item in the program which perhaps will attract more public reaction than any other is the plan to increase taxes on real estate by one and a half mills. Added to the three-mill increase in school taxes on real estate which became effective last July, the city increase makes some bad year-end news for local industries, home owners and other holders of taxable property.

We recognize, of course, that the cost of government almost inevitably follows the trends in other costs, and these trends until recently were upward. Also, the city has been advised by major industrial employers to anticipate some falling-off of revenues from the wage-income tax in 1958. So unless some economy measures are taken — and the council does not seem so inclined — there is not much choice but to raise taxes on real estate.

We had hoped that, before any further tax increases were made, some program would be started both in Monessen and in Westmoreland County as a whole to overhaul the antiquated assessment procedures which are producing more and more inequities each year. If real estate taxes are going to continue to be the largest and most reliable source of income for local government, taxpayers have a right to be assured that the valuations on which these taxes have to be based are reached by reasonable and fair procedures. That simply is not the case at the present time, and it strikes us as a serious neglect of duty on the part of local and county elective officials who have responsibility for assessments.

* * *

CITY COUNCIL is also proposing to borrow $225,000 on its own authority and use the proceeds for the paving of streets, the construction of sewers and acquisition of additional land for the new library building.

Of this amount, $75,000 is already committed as the city's share of the Schoonmaker Ave. project now underway and $15,000 is required to purchase a small building at the library site on Donner Ave. so that the new library building and the modern Manos Theatre building will not be separated by an antiquated property.

The remaining $135,000 of the proposed bond issue would be used for a list of street and sewer projects in various parts of the city.

We understand, however, that these projects have not been coordinated with the Planning Commission under the master plan which is nearing completion. And we raise the question as to whether the council ought not to postpone further borrowing until this can be done.

The basic purpose of the master plan is to guide the city's physical improvements in order to produce, over a period of years, the broad result envisioned in the plan. And since the plan is but a few months from completion, we doubt that it would be a serious matter to hold off a major improvement program to be sure that it is proceeding in the precisely the directions Monessen wants to go.

* * *

WE HAVE a city administration which seems sincerely anxious to build a better Monessen and which has been making solid strides toward that end. And we have no intention of dampening this ambition.

But since the community has so solidly supported long-range planning as the best means of reaching desirable civic goals for future generations as well as for those now living in Monessen, it would be a mistake for the council now to ad lib, as it were, a list of unrelated projects costing $135,000.

To fulfill the objectives of the master plan undoubtedly will require large capital expenditures by the city over a long period of years. Certainly it will not be possible to do everything at once, which means that a schedule of priorities will have to be established among future projects and first things undertaken first.

We believe that the sooner the city council starts to do things this way, the sooner Monessen will be the kind of community its citizens have shown they want it to be.

Behind The News—

U. S. to Be on Defensive at Paris Meet

By CHARLES M. McCANN

The United States apparently is going to be forced into a defensive role at the approaching "summit" conference in Paris.

Mr. McCann

Two weeks from today, the 15 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are to open their three-day meeting.

Headlines over dispatches on the meeting from Allied capitals emphasize that it will be "vital," "urgent" and "critical."

The talk in Washington is that President Eisenhower may still go through with his plan, despite his illness, to represent the United States.

In Paris, NATO officials take it for granted that Vice President Richard M. Nixon will lead the American delegation.

But whoever leads it, it seems increasingly certain that he will face a demand for some promises that he may not be able to accept.

Has British Support

The United States is pretty sure to have the complete support of Great Britain.

West Germany is likely to go along with the United States and Britain.

But France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Denmark and Norway are likely to ask for some sweeping commitments.

Primarily, a lot of the NATO nations want the United States—and Britain—to agree that there shall be advance consultation among the Allies on big issues in both the political and military field.

France will want assurance, for instance, that there will be no more such incidents as that in which the United States and Britain sent weapons to its former protectorate of Tunisia over its protest.

Fear Land Invasion

Countries like Belgium, The Netherlands, Denmark and Norway are likely to ask that the United States pay a lot more attention to the threat they would face from a sweep of Russian land forces in event of war.

These countries are getting acutely nervous also over what would happen to them if the terrible new weapon of nuclear warfare were brought into play by the United States and Russia.

Britain shares with the United States the fear that a pledge of advance consultation might give smaller NATO nations a veto power.

Certainly, the present outlook for the "summit" meeting is not bright. Also, whoever leads the American delegation is going to have a workout.

MOSCOW — Russian scientist V. Alexandrov, in a newspaper article outlining plans for a rocket plane that would be fired into space and then unfold its wings to return to earth:

"The construction by the Soviet Union of an intercontinental ballistics missile and successful launching of Sputniks brought considerably nearer the rocket plane epoch. The rocket plane is the last phase in development of the airplane before transition to interplanetary ship."

GETTYSBURG — Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, announcing that the President will preside over whatever portion of any cabinet meeting he is present for:

"Whenever the President walks into a room . . . He automatically is in the chair."

WASHINGTON — Dr. Theodore Von Karman, senior missiles adviser to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, explaining that Russia's rocket development has outmoded the use of powerful permanent bases:

"It must be so arranged that missiles can be launched from unprepared places . . . in the end we will have to arm all our friends."

EDINBURGH — A spokesman for Scottish police who caught up with runaway heiress Tessa Kennedy, 19, and Dominic Elwes, 26, who are under court order preventing their marriage in England:

In cases like this we only assure ourselves that the girl is well and happy. We do not act."

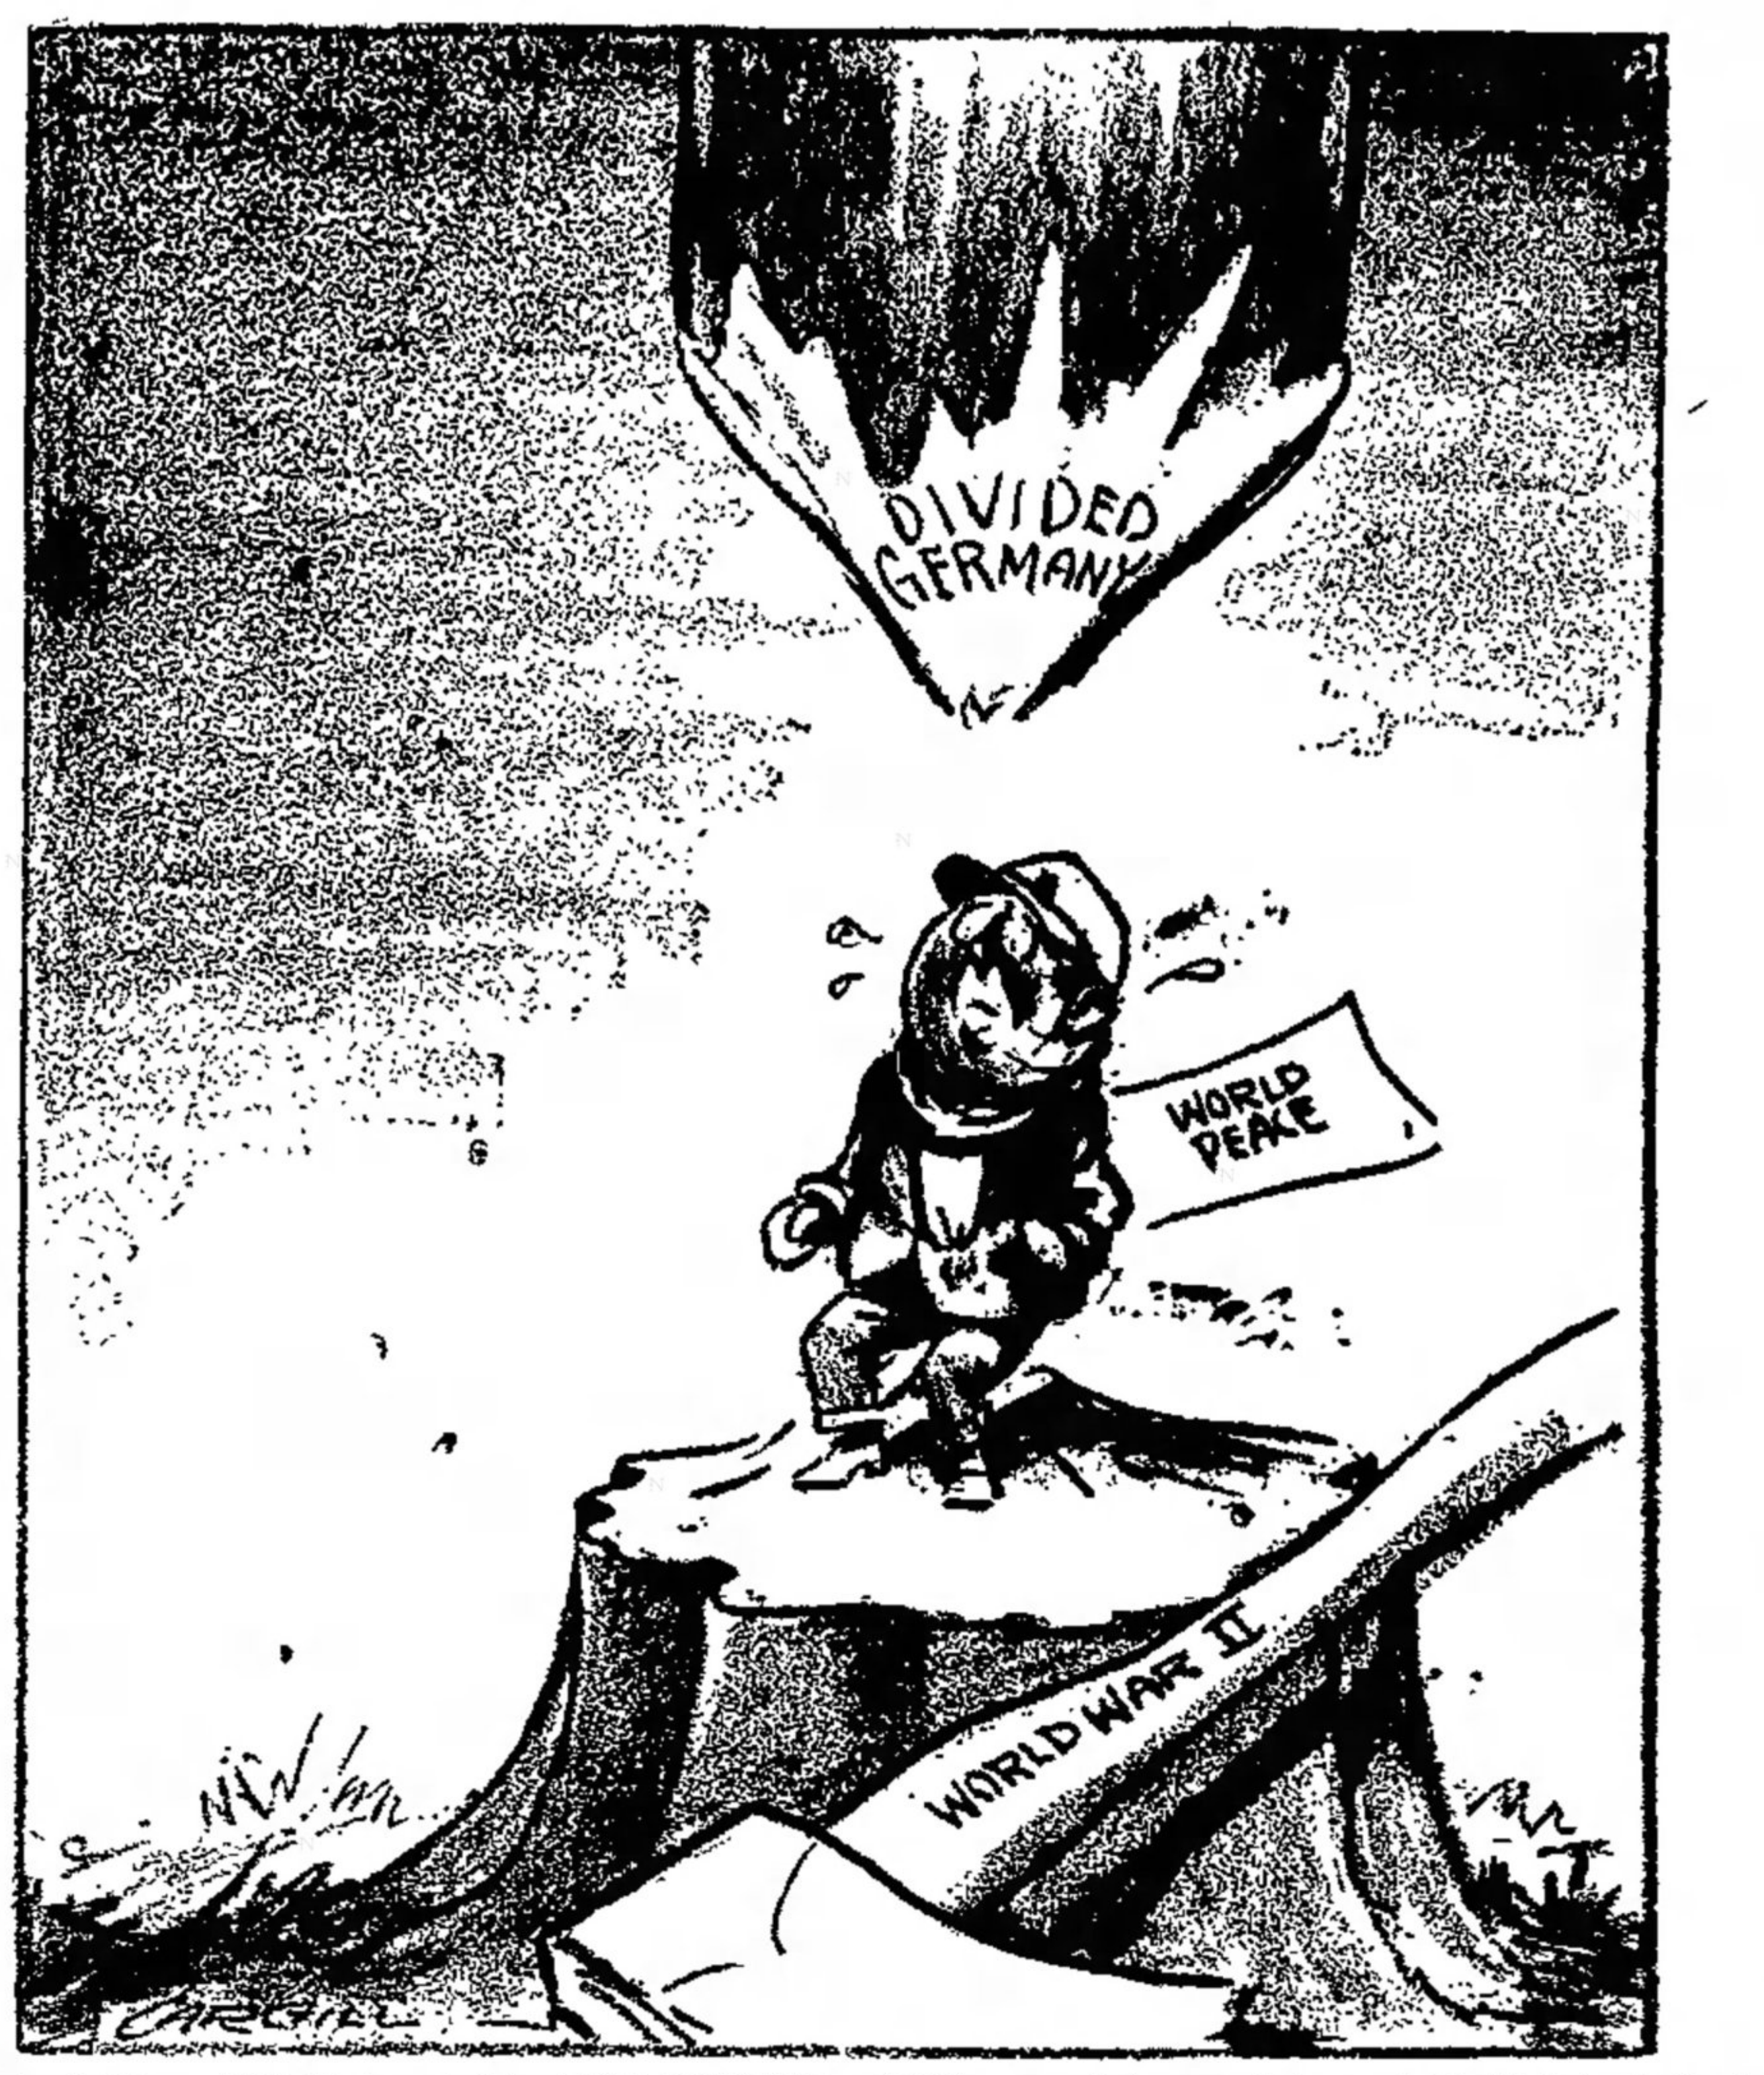
Deutschland Over All!



From Washington—

Why not Tell It Right?

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The White House is faced with an unresolved dilemma over how to report promptly the medical facts concerning the President's illnesses.

Mr. Drummond

This dilemma arises not from any desire to cover up the facts nor from unwillingness to let the medical reports speak for themselves. However, when you look back over the record of official White House releases covering the coronary in Sept. 1955, the ileitis attack in June 1956, and the blocked brain artery last week, the following pattern emerges:

1—Consistently the White House has ultimately put out the facts with unprecedented frankness and detail. There has been no squeamishness and in the end no concealment whatsoever. That's mighty good.

2—But, in each instance, the ultimate release of accurate medical information was preceded by the release of inaccurate medical information. In each instance the accurate medical diagnosis was not made public until from 10 to 24 hours after the misleading medical diagnosis had been officially given out. In each instance Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the White House physician, authorized the release of an account of the President's condition which was inaccurate. And not until hours after this authorized misinformation had been distributed through all news media around the world, was the true account made available.

Why Delay Facts?

Why? Why does the White House allow itself to deal in inaccurate medical information before it deals in accurate medical information?

The reason, I am sure, is not that Dr. Snyder deliberately wants to mislead. Press Secretary James Hagerty has a superb record of candid White House medical reporting — after the first 10 to 24 hours. His instinct is to get out the facts. He knows that concealment is impossible and that there is no profit in it.

Dr. Snyder has said that his reason for first affirming that the Denver heart attack was a "digestive upset" and the mild stroke last week as a "chill" was that he wanted to be surer of the facts, more informed in his medical diagnosis, before he said so.

This, then is the dilemma: In order rightly to guard against releasing premature diagnosis, is it necessary or wise for the White House to release inaccurate diagnosis?

Not Good Enough

The effect of the policy which Dr. Snyder has practised thus far is to try to avoid misleading the public by releasing misinformation and allowing it to stand from 10 to 24 hours in each of Mr. Eisenhower's three major illnesses.

That isn't good enough, is it?

Let us look at what actually happened.

Dr. Snyder arrived at the Doud house in Denver at 3:11 a.m. on the morning of Sept. 24, and Robert J. Donovan's book, "Eisenhower — the Inside Story," reports that "it took only two or three minutes for Snyder to come to the grave conclusion that the President of the United States was suffering from a coronary thrombosis." But at 10.30 that morning Assistant Press Secretary Murray Snyder announced, on information from Dr. Snyder, that the President had a touch of indigestion. It was 2:30 in the afternoon before this mis-statement was withdrawn and the facts put out.

The ileitis attack brought a similar sequence of events. At about the time the White House was announcing on the morning of June 8 that the President had "just a stomach upset," Dr. Snyder, together with specialists, knew that it was ileitis. The false information preceded the true by a number of hours.

The same last week. Between 3 and 4 p.m. Monday the doctors diagnosed the President's illness as a blocked brain artery, but for the next 24 hours the White House was announcing that the President has suffered "a chill."

What Can Be Done?

What can be done, constructively?

From the record a pertinent fact presents itself: In every instance the withheld diagnosis of the doctors has been right; in every instance the later diagnosis has confirmed the earlier diagnosis. Thus, there has not only been no justification, but no need, for the White House to issue medical misinformation — even temporarily.

Jim Hagerty's wise advice has always been: "Play it straight." Wouldn't it be better if the White House physicians did the same?

The Views of Others—

The Uncommon Man

By HERBERT HOOVER

In my opinion, we are in danger of developing a cult of the Common Man, which means a cult of mediocrity. But there is at least one hopeful sign: I have never been able to find out just who this Common Man is. In fact, most Americans — especially women — will get mad and fight if you try calling them common.

This is hopeful because it shows that most people are holding fast to an essential fact in American life. We believe in equal opportunity for all, but we know that this includes the opportunity to rise in leadership. In other words — "to be uncommon."

Let us remember that the great human advances have not been brought about by mediocre men and women. They were brought about by distinctly uncommon people with vital sparks of leadership. Many great leaders were of humble origin, but that alone was not their greatness.

It is a curious fact that when you get sick you want an uncommon doctor; if your car breaks down you want an uncommonly good mechanic; when we get into war we want dreadfully an uncommon admiral and uncommon general.

I have never met a father and mother who did not want their children to grow up to be uncommon men and women. May it always be so. For the future of America rests not in mediocrity, but in the constant renewal of leadr-e ship in very phas of our national life.

The 100th Birthday of A Remarkable Man

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—The 100th birthday anniversary of one of the prodigious men of our time slipped by Sunday—and it was a shame he couldn't have lived to celebrate it with his customary cigars, scotch, wine, beer, and flavorful talk of high times past.

Dr. Maurice J. Lewi almost made it. He lived—and worked, and played—into his 100th year. He had figured that when that century birthday anniversary came around at last, the college which he had founded would throw a lulu of a banquet for him.

He would have made it, too, except for an accident at his office. He slipped and broke his arm. Three months later, he fell stepping from a taxi and broke the same arm and became bedridden. He died last May 27, two weeks after having addressed a dinner by amplified telephone.

His Activity Amazing

His activity was amazing. Until near the end, he presided daily as head of the New York College of Podiatry, which he, an M. D., founded in 1912. A gracious gentleman with clear blue eyes, old-fashioned stand-up collar, cigar a-jiggle between two fingers, he rocked in a swivel chair at his rolltop desk and spoke in well-rounded sentences, as if reading from a book.

He was the oldest active practitioner of medicine and education in the United States. Into his 100th year he: lived alone in a hotel, took a bus to work, made speeches, smoked eight cigars a day, ate "everything," had scotches before, and dry chablis during, dinner; played poker and whist three times weekly at the New York Bridge-Whist Club (which he founded in 1906), attended meetings of the Albany Society of New York (which he founded in 1893) and—

Most nights just before midnight he arrived at Tony's Italian Kitchen, across the street from his hotel, and hung out there sometimes until closing, mixing cheese, crackers, and scotch highballs with beer cocktails. "My associates know where to find me," he would say.

Hobnobbed with Editors

Dr. Lewi was a wit of repute. He hobnobbed with newspaper editors and once wrote editorials, just as a sideline to medicine, in his native Albany, N. Y. He knew six U. S. presidents personally, two of them intimately, and was mentioned in Teddy Roosevelt's autobiography.

When he was eight, he saw Abraham Lincoln in his coffin—"probably the most spiritual thing in my life—I can see that face yet," he told me once, "gaunt. . .homely. . .but there was something in it really spiritual, even in death."

To go into Dr. Lewi's achievements and experiences would take a book. He wrote medical treatises, as secretary of the State Board of Medical Examiners in 1892 cleaned up New York City of illegal practitioners, attended the post mortem of McKinley's assassin after being a medical witness at the execution, wrote verse, created jokes. . . .

"I hope," he wrote me once, "you will experience the yen at an early date to pay me a social visit." His language had a charm of its own.

The Woman's View—

Life with Bernstein

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Mrs. Leonard Bernstein once observed that her musician-husband is difficult "to live with."

"But what man worth living with isn't?" she asked.

"Does this still apply?" I asked her today as we talked of her husband's new job — permanent conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

"I stick with my statement," she said, and laughed. "Actually marriage to Lennie is hard only because his life is so hectic. As a person, he is even-tempered, he's neat, organized and thoughtful."

To some, Bernstein is a musical genius.

"To me he's such a collection of things . . . I know him so well," Mrs. Bernstein said. "He's more than husband. He's my companion and I would never dream of doing things without him."

Classic And Popular Composer

Bernstein, at 38, is the first American-born conductor to take over the Philharmonic podium. But conducting is only one facet of his career. He is a composer in both the classical and popular fields, he wrote the music for the current Broadway hit, "West Side Story," he is brilliant pianist, and a recording artist. Any one job is enough for most people; but the versatile Bernstein seems to thrive on work.

"When I see that he needs a rest, I just cart him off to a hospital," said his wife. "That's exactly what I did last week after the news of the Philharmonic was announced.

"Lennie called up and complained, 'This is rest? I've kept count and 13 people have been in and out of this room in the last three hours.'

"He ended up talking the doctors into letting him watch some operations."

Domestication of Bernstein began when he met Felicia Montealegre at a party. Chilean-born, she had come to New York to study piano but got so intrigued after some acting lessons, she switched interests.

Mrs. Bernstein, 35, a fragile blonde with great brown eyes, said she didn't know about her husband "but for me it was love at first sight." They were married in 1951 and have two children—Jamie, 5 and blonde, like her mother, and Alexander Serge, 2, named for the late conductor of the Boston Philharmonic, Serge Koussevitzky, who helped guide Bernstein's early conducting career.

Daughter Shows Talent

Jamie shows signs of developing some of her father's talents.

"She will listen to music by the hour," said Mrs. Bernstein, "or she will sit at the piano and improvise. She will hear a melody and shout, 'Mamma, that's Mozart.'"

"I don't encourage her. To me, this is a frightening thing in a 5-year-old."

Mrs. Bernstein didn't drop her acting career by any means when she married the muscian. Most of her work has been concentrated on television.

"I think a woman has to keep her own identity," she said. "Acting lets me preserve some of mine. But I've just about quit the piano. I loathe it when I don't play well . . . and I really don't practice enough. Lennie's not critical, but I know if I hit a wrong note, he'll shout, 'That's A-flat . . . A-flat.' "

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Wilkinsburg Win Crowning Point

Wilkinsburg turning back Clairton was the crowning point of a crazy, mixed up 1957 football season. The favorite dropping the title in WPIAL Class AA championship tilt ordinarily would have been tabbed an upset but in this unusual season it seems perfectly normal to finish it in such a fashion to climax the many upsets, flu epidemic which fouled the schedules, etc. . . . Monessen High's Armand Niccolai had witnessed the game and agreed with most fans at the game that Clairton had it the first half but it was the Holy City lads' contest the rest of the way . . . One of the happiest guys over the victory was Bill Parkinson, Jr., former Monessen High athlete, who coaches junior high basketball and varsity baseball at Wilkinsburg, going there from the head basketball job at Monongahela three years ago . . . He renewed acquaintances at the Elks' Stag here Saturday night.

* * *

Sitting in on the rain-splattered Army-Navy thriller Saturday were Jim Weir, Rostraver High athletic director and Ed Hogan, Rostraver junior high grid mentor . . . Jerry Pasquale, former Monessen High and Waynesburg College cager and later a coach of the American Legion quintet in the Westmoreland County League a few years back, visited the area over the Thanksgiving holiday at the home of his brother-in-law Bill Kioski, of Belle Vernon. Jerry now resides in Silver Springs, Md. . . . Another well-known sports figure here was a weekend visitor — Floyd Wiseman, tackle on the (47) Greyhound team and later a lineman of note at Carnegie Tech. He now resides in South Hills (Pittsburgh). He's the proud father of twins.

Friends to Honor Niccolai

Greyhound grid mentor Armand Niccolai's many friends in this area are honoring him next Sunday night at the NIPA hall here . . . A few tickets are still available for the affair which will be a Sports Stag beginning at 6:30 o'clock . . . Contact Armand Mori, MHS Faculty Manager, or any other NIPA member for ducts . . . When contacting Mori, it would be wise to ask about your season basketball ducat if you haven't already obtained one . . . When West Virginia's Hundley-less cage team takes the floor against Furman this week, fans can look forward to a high-scoring tilt if past games mean anything . . . Last year Hot Rod Hundley scored 54 points in that game and the two games set a Mountaineer Field House record with 110 (W. Va.) and 95 (Furman) points scored by the two teams.

* * *

Braddock, new WPIAL Class A champion has complied the longest winning streak in the league with 36 straight wins with only a 7-7 tie to mar the record . . . Last team to top Coach Chuck Klausing's lads was North Braddock Scott in 1953 . . . In fact Klausing's teams at Braddock have not lost a game since he came there four years ago . . . The annual WPIAL meeting will be held at the Assembly Room of the Webster Hall Hotel next Saturday . . . Reports of committees, election of officers and other business pertinent to the league will be on the agenda with member schools requested to supply their representatives with ballots for the proposed PIAA amendments.

Perry Gridder 'Dream Player'

William Thomas, former Perry-Lower Tyrone star, new matriculating at Clemson College, S. C., has been tabbed as a "dream player" by Clemson coach Frank Howard . . . Howard said that Thomas is the most efficient blocker on the team from his center slot and a top-notch defender as left linebacker . . . Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas of Layton . . . Westmoreland County Class A Football Conference members including Bellmar and Rostraver will hold a confab in March in an effort to encourage contests between member schools, something lacking in setting up a strong conference now . . . Other member schools are Penn Joint, Vandergrift, Ligonier, Derry Area, North Huntingdon, Mt. Pleasant Ramsay, Scottdale and Mt. Pleasant Hurst.

Today's Sports Parade—

Middleweights Class Liviest in Boxing

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UP)— Now, in the last month of 1957, the middleweight division is the liveliest in boxing; but realist Frank Bachman says:

"Don't go using superlatives. Don't throw hats into the air. The middleweight class may be the best in boxing today, but it's not nearly as good as it was back in the 1920's."

Somewhat unexpected was Bachman's cold-water treatment. He manages Rory Calhoun, an outstanding 160-pound contender—ranked third, just behind ex-champions Ray Robinson and Gene Fullmer. And any Hosannahs he might yodle about the division would indirectly glorify Calhoun.

Veteran, But No Glorifier

But Frank is no glorifier, even though he's a veteran manager whom one would expect to be a master of the flamboyant boost. This middle-sized, dark-complexioned pilot with the rimless spectacles went through the "old school" as manager of Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom from 1923 to 1939. Maxie became light heavyweight champion in 1930. Bachman also assisted Bob Olin to the same title and he brought Lew Jenkins to New York, where he became lightweight king.

"Back around 192, when Rosenbloom was fighting as a middleweight, that division was jammed with good men like Harry Greb, Mickey Walker, Tiger Flowers, Johnny Wilson, Jock Malone, Ace Hudkins, and the like," Bachman recalled.

"Why, it seemed that every city had three or four very good middleweights — men who could put up a good fight with the best. And there's no question in my mind that the best then — Greb, Walker or Flowers — could have beaten Sugar Ray Robinson the peak day he ever saw. And Robinson has been held up by recent experts as the greatest all-round fighter of the past 10 years, at least."

But what about Calhoun, the 23-year-old slugger from White Plains, N.Y., who has lost but two of his 34 bouts and registered 16 knockouts?

Two MHS Gridders All-State

Dan Barton, Monessen High grid quarterback, and Bob Pauline, Greyhound guard, today were given honorable mention notice on the 1957 United Press, All-State team.

Barton last week was named to All-Big Five Conference first team and Pauline to the all-conference second team.

Other Mon Valley Conference (Big Five) teams receiving notice on the All-State squad were Ollie Payne of Charleroi, named to the first team, Jim Voelker of Monongaheal on the second squad and Angie Dabiero, Donora, Myron Myrga of Brownsville and Fred Yuss of Charleroi on the honorable mention list.

The selection of seven MVC players on the squad is a new trend as the valley is usually ignored in the balloting in favor of eastern schools.

Wilt The Stilt Leads Kansas

Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain carried Kansas safely past its first big test of the college basketball season, but Kentucky got a bad scare and Indiana was upset in the year's first big surprises.

Kansas, the nation's No. 2 team, was leading by only a point at halftime until the seven-foot Chamberlain went into high gear and led the Jayhawks to a 63-56 victory over Oklahoma State Monday night at Stillwater, Okla.

Kentucky, ranked No. 5, had to rally in the last two minutes to nip Duke, 78-74, on its own home court. And Indiana, last season's Big Ten co-champion and ranked 14th for the new campaign, was sent crashing by Ohio University, 76-68, at Bloomington, Ind.

Chamberlain wound up with 30 points in his opening effort for Kansas, 17 of them coming in the second half as Kansas pulled away.

City Cage Program Hits Gym 'Snag'

Plans for schedules, election of officers, team rosters and league by-laws were held in abeyance because of the lack of a basketball gymnasium at a reorganization meeting of the City Basketball League held in the Recreation Office at the Civic Center last night.

Recreation Director, Tom D'Errico presided at the meeting. Representing Ozarks, Tony Mascetta; Yellow Jackets, Joe Rullo, Myford's A. C. Gene Hall; PNA, Wyne Teska; East End, Chuck Lewitsky; Viaduct A. C., Bucky Lutes. "Dibby" DiBiaso represented the city league basketball officials.

Unless an adequate gym can be acquired the City Basketball League appears doomed. The representatives in attendance at last evening's meeting unanimously agreed that the Junior High School floor presented a great deal of hazard for basketball.

Mentioned as possibilities were the Co. D Armory and the Monessen High School gym. However, many formalities must be overcome before this can become a reality.

D'Errico will call a meeting of the City Basketball League representatives as soon as it can be learned if a gymnasium will be available for the 1958 season.

Any other teams desiring to enter the City Basketball League should delegate a representative at the next meeting. Consult the sports section for time and date of the next meeting.

Stubbs Impresses Despite Defeat

NEW YORK UP — Unbeaten Gene (Ace) Armstrong clicked off his 13th straight victory Monday night against middleweight Reybon Stubbs, but Stubbs made such a good showing that each will get another TV fight at St. Nicholas Arena next month.

Armstrong, who won a unanimous 10-round decision at St. Nick's over Stubbs of Pittsburgh, must wait until Jan. 20 for his next bout because he suffered a slight cut at the edge of his practically closed left eye in the 10th round.

'Monessen Flavor' At 22nd Annual MVFOA Banquet

Tom Preston, Monessen's popular ex-Faculty Manager at MHS but currently as active as ever in sports, in many ways, reminded a large gathering of Mon Valley football officials, coaches, sports writers and friends of the memories and benefits derived from sports, as principal speaker at the 2nd Annual Banquet of the Mon Valley Football Officials Association held in the Charleroi Elks Club last night.

The banquet had a definite Monessen flavor with Dr. Michael Duda, former Superintendent of Schools here, now president of California State Teachers College and Preston Ditty, former grid coach here, also at the speaker's table. Dr. Duda spoke on modern educational trends as we "approach the push-button age."

Others on the interesting program included outgoing MVFOA president George Kuvinka, new president Anthony Grimaldi; Ted Nemeth, head football coach at California Teachers; Johnny Popovich (also of Monessen) head grid mentor at Waynesburg College; Tom Barbero, Faculty Manager of Athletics at Monongahela High School, Jim Hamer, NFL official from Fayette City; and William Dolde, WPIAL president, who spoke on the movement toward conferences and "pop-offs who rap secondary education schools on their sports activities" without knowing the facts.

Introduced were various coaches in the district including Big Five mentors Armand Niccolai, Monessen, Rab Currie, Charleroi, Al Cree of Monongahela and Bap Manzini of Bellmar, Wade Bender of Rostraver, Lou Rozzi, of German Township, Bobby Williams of Greensburg; sports writers Bob Wood of Washington, Bill Speery of Connellsville, Vince Leonard of Monongahela, and Clair Brown of The Daily Independent and sportscaster Frank Buscanics of the Charleroi radio station.

Johnny Bunardzya, sports editor of the Charleroi newspaper, was master of ceremonies.

Alabama Signs Bear Bryant as Grid Mentor

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (UP)— Paul (Bear) Bryant, resigned his $15,000-a-year post as head at Texas A&M Monday to go back to his alma mater, the University of Alabama, and take over the job of rebuilding its football fortunes.

Bryant, a tall, stern football taskmaster who pulled the Aggies up from the Southwest Conference cellar to national ranking in four years, became the second coach to leave a Southwest Conference team since the end of the season Only last week personable Jack Mitchell of Arkansas resigned to take over as head coach at Kansas.

President T. M. Harrington of A&M announced the school would release Bryant from the final seven years of his 10-year contract "with regret," but no official word on the hiring of Bryant has come from Alabama as of yet.

Alabama President Dr. Frank A. Rose said at Lexington, Ky., that Bryant's announcement came as a surprise to him.

He said he hoped to talk to Bryant sometime late Monday night or early today about succeeding Alabama coach J. B. (Ears) Whitworth.

Steelers Draft Krutko, Sooner Guard; Player Demands Met

By RUSS GREEN

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The National Football League, with a gentle nudge from Congress, had all of the demands of the league Players' Association in its books today ahead of the deadline of a $4,200,000 suit threatened by the players' counsel.

The concessions included a $5,000 minimum salary for players selected from the college rolls, payment of $50 for exhibition games and an injury clause in the contract protecting players hurt in the performance of their services.

Commissioner Bert Bell who made the recommendations and who announced that the league owners adopted them unanimously, admitted freely they grew from suggestions made by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) and members of Celler's Congressional committee.

The owners will toe the line so gently that beginning next year, the "draw from the hat" for the bonus choice will be dropped on the premise it smacks too much of a lottery.

Bell will recommend at the midwinter meeting that the lowest team in the percentage standings get the free pick, and that system will be continued each year marked by the systematic elimination from the percentage list any team which had the bonus choice.

Creighton Miller, counsel for the players, had no comment when told in Cleveland that the player demands had been met.

The Chicago Cardinals, the last of the 12 teams to get the "draw from the hat" bonus, and the lowest team percentagewise, took King Hill of Rice, the 210-pound, jack-of-all-trades quarterback, as its bonus pick.

Here is the player selection list by teams the first four rounds of the draft completed today. The remaining 26 selections by the league teams will be made at the NFL mid-winter meeting.

Because of earlier trades of draft choices, not all teams selected the same numbers of players today.

The list:

Los Angeles

Jim Phillips, end, Auburn; Lou Michaels, tackle, Kentucky; Clendon Thomas, back, Oklahoma; Jim Jones, back, Washington; Urban Henry, tackle, Georgia Tech; John Gruzik, guard, Pittsburgh; Frank Ryan, back, Rice.

Philadelphia

Walt Kowalczyk, back, Michigan State; Proverb Jacobs, tackle, California; Frank Rigney, tackle, Iowa.

Chicago Bears

Charles Howley, guard, West Virginia; Willard Deuveall, end, Southern Methodist; Ed Cook, end, Maryland; Don Healy, tackle, Maryland; Erich Barnes, back, Purdue.

Pittsburgh

Larry Krutko, back, West Virginia; Bill Krisher, guard, Oklahoma.

San Francisco

Jim Pace, back, Michigan; Charles Krueger, tackle, Texas A&M; Bob Newman, back, Washington State; Bob Hoppe, back, Auburn; John Varone, back, Miami (Fla.).

Detroit

Alex Karras, tackle, Iowa; Wayne Walker, center, Idaho.

Baltimore

Leonard Lyles, back, Louisville; Bob Stransky, back, Colorado; Joe Nicely, guard, West Virginia; Les Walters, end, Penn State.

New York

Phil King, back, Vanderbilt; Frank Youso, tackle, Minnesota; Don Caraway, back, Houston.

Cleveland

Jim Shofner, back, Texas Christian; Charles Mitchell, University of Florida; Mel Guy, tackle, Duke; Jim Ninowski, back, Michigan State.

District College Cagers in 'Little' Openers Tonight

By UNITED PRESS

The district college basketball season gets off the ground tonight, but doesn't really begin to soar until Wednesday night when the "big" schools open action.

Top clash on tonight's schedule pairs St. Francis and St. Vincent at the War Memorial Auditorium in Johnstown. St. Vincent, loaded with lettermen, should give Coach Skip Hughes a real line on what to expect from this season's Frankie squad.

Hughes has four lettermen back and will field a starting lineup which averages 6-5 in height.

In other games tonight, Frostburg is at Waynesburg and Indiana plays at Thiel.

Washington & Jefferson opened its season Monday night with an easy 70-53 victory over California State Teachers in the district's only action. Larry Romboski led the Prexies with 29 points while Ken Rogers was high for California with 18.

Seven games are on tap for Wednesday night headed by Duquesne at Carnegie Tech and Michican at Pitt. Allegheny plays at Oberlin, Edinboro meets Grove City, National Aggies are at Geneva, W&J at Gannon and Westminster at Kent State.

Duquesne, with a sprinkling of highly-touted sophomores, meets Tech in the Skibo Gym. Coach Dudey Moore has the nucleus of a squad which should equal last year's 16-7 record.

Bob DePalma, a 6-6 senior will be back, along with Jack Sauer, Red Ryan and Bernie Matthews. Among the sophomores is jumpshooter George Brown, a 6-4 husky from North Catholic High

Navy Officially Lambert Winner

NEW YORK (UP)—It's official Navy today was acclaimed winner of the 1957 Lambert Trophy, emblematic of eastern college football supremacy.

All 12 members of the selection board cast their votes for the Middies, who clinched the trophy last Saturday by rolling to a 14-0 victory over Army.

The Cadets finished second in the final voting with nine points, compared to Navy's perfect score of 10. Penn State was third with 7.1 points, followed by Pittsburgh (6.2), Holy Cross (5.6), Princeton (4.9) Syracuse (4.8), Yale (2.9), Boston College (2.2) and Dartmouth (2.1).

The trophy will be presented to Rear Admiral William R. Smedberg II, superintendent of the Naval Academy, at a reception next Sunday. Navy also won the trophy in 1913 and 1954.

Two Panthers, Lions All-East

NEW YORK (UP)—Penn State and Pittsburgh each placed two players on the East College All-Star team which will play the football game at San Francisco, Dec. 28.

Penn State fullback Emil Caprara and end Les Walters were selected Monday along with Pitt center Charles Brueckman and tackle Jim McCusker.

Lion Coach Rip Engle will tutor the East squad.

Sportsmen's Corner—

Prospects High for Fine Deer Season

Penn's Woods have been invaded by hundreds of thousands of wool-clad deer hunters, each anxious to bag a big buck carrying a trophy rack. Sportsmen always hope for a light, easy-to-travel blanket of snow, against which deer and antlers show up clearly and on which kills can be dragged without damage to the hide. Traditionally, most of the hunting will be done in the wooded mountainlands, but some cagey sportsmen will remain near home and take the large, heavily-racked bucks to to be found on agricultural areas, often near centers of human population.

Game Commission officials anticipate an exceptional harvest of deer in the upcoming 1957 Pennsylvania seasons. They base their appraisal on consistent reports from Game Protectors and others qualified to offer an opinion, who say that more deer roam the Keystone State this fall than prior to the 1956 season. Estimates place the present herd near the half million mark. One barometer which the authorities believe indicates the herd has increased is the large kill of deer by highway vehicles, farmers for crop damage, out-of-season hunters, and also by dogs and numerous accidental causes. The known total for deer so killed during 1956 was over 13,000. The actual number was undoubtedly much higher.

From reports received so far in 1957 the number of deer killed for the above reasons will far exceed that of last year. Most Game Protectors have noted a considerable increase in the fawn crop. An exceptional number of twins were reported this year. The condition of the deer and the size of the bucks' antlers were noted as consistently better in farming areas, although they were also above average in sectors where timber had been cut on state and private lands, and where trees were felled in field edge developments or along woodland roads.

'Big One'—

During October, eleven out of the twenty deer that were road killed in southern Montgomery County, which borders Philadelphia, were large bucks.

Says Donald Croft, the Game Protector in that district, "One buck that weighed over 215 pounds had a nice six-point rack. The antlers of several other big, male deer were broken, so it was difficult to tell the number of points. The deer herd in this populous district is growing larger every year."

These remarks are echoed by other Game Protectors who service metropolitan areas.

Reminder—

At the close of the Pennsylvania bear season, 5 p.m., November 30, successful but forgetful hunters are asked to fill out their big game tag, or provide the information required on it, and mail it immediately to the Game Commission at Harrisburg.

Laid aside or thrust absentmindedly into a hunting jacket the kill report may not be mailed within the required five day period following the season. When this occurs the authorities fail to learn facts important to the state's wildlife management program. Also the absent-minded or negligent bear killer may later be embarrassed when an investigation is made. The Commission is serious in its intent to learn the facts about every bear taken in the 1957 season.

JAY BERWANGER

Jay Berwanger was the last of the great football players at the University of Chicago, making the All-America in 1935 though he played with a down-trodden team. Once a banner-line read: "Berwanger 6, Illinois 0." His greatest game was a 20-13 loser against Ohio State in 1935 when Jay ran wild but not wild enough. He did, however, become the first winner of the Heisman Trophy and was the first player ever selected (Philadelphia drew him) when the National Football League set up its collect draft in 1936.

Whatever happened to Jay Berwanger? Today he's a partner in an industrial rubber firm in Chicago.

North Carolina Picked to Again Cop College Basketball Honors

NEW YORK (UP)— North Carolina's "Yankee Tar Heels," who went unbeaten in 32 game last season, were picked by the United Press board of coaches Tuesday to repeat as the 1957-58 national college basketball champions.

Kansas, beaten by the Tar Heels by one point in a triple-overtime NCAA Tournament finale, again is ranked second, with Bradley, last year's National Invitation Tournament champion, third.

Twenty of the 35 famous coaches who comprise the rating board cast first-place ballots for each Frank McGuire's defending champs, and they were the only team to be named on all 35. Kansas and Bradley each missed two.

Tar Heels 30 Points Ahead

With points awarded on a sliding scale for votes from first to 10th place, North Carolina rolled up 324 points against 294 for Kansas and 206 for Bradley.

San Francisco, the 1956 national champion, almost took the third spot again in the pre-season poll with 202 points. Kentucky, reported to be another Adolph Rupp powerhouse, took fifth with 171. The Wildcats were ranked ninth last season.

North Carolina goes into the new season, opening with a game against Clemson Saturday, with much the same team as last year. Missing, however, are graduated All-America Lennie Rosenbluth and Joe Quigg, who scored the tourney-winning points against Kansas but suffered a broken leg last month. Moving up to fill one spot is a highly-touted six-seven sophomore, Lee Shaffer.

One-Man Guarantee

Kansas, of course, has Wilt Chamberlain and the seven-footer is a one-man guarantee of a top season. Bradley has the same young crew that "came of age" in the NIT, led by high-scoring Barney Cable.

Michigan State, surprise Big Ten co-champion last year, is sixth in the pre-season ratings. Kansas State, Kansas' top rival in its own conference, stands seventh. Temple again gains the highest rank given an eastern team but this time it's eighth. Notre Dame, top Midwest independent, is in the No. 9 spot. Washington rounds out the top 10.

Biggest Shopping Binge Expected This Christmas

WASHINGTON (UP) — Americans appear to be headed toward the biggest Christmas shopping binge ever this year, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce predicted today.

The chamber said December retail sales were expected to hit about 20 billion dollars, topping last year's $19,400,000,000 total despite some recent tapering off in the economic boom.

It conceded that rises in unemployment and a sag in the stock market may have made Christmas shoppers "a little more cautious" about opening their purses. But the chamber said, "chances are when the Christmas fever sets in, December sales should be the biggest yet, or at least tied for the first place with 1956."

It listed the population increase and large Christmas club savings as among the factors which would lead to heavy buying this month.

Algerian Split Widening

UNITED NATIONS (UP)—Deepening differences between France and the Arab states today hobbled U.N. efforts to resolve the Algerian rebellion.

The French demanded the Algerian Nationalists end the shooting phase of their three-year-old rebellion immediately. The Arabs insisted on "independence" for Algeria before a cease fire.

The General Assembly's main Political Committee scheduled morning, afternoon and evening sessions today in an effort to wind up the debate.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau made it clear Monday night that France feels its new "framework" and election laws for Algeria are more than enough to show its good faith.

He reaffirmed the French position that the sequence of events for Algeria must be: 1. A cease fire, 2. Elections of local, regional and national assemblies, 3. Negotiations on the future status of the North African territory.

Saudi Arabian Minister of State Ahmed Shukairy, a leading spokesman for the Arab cause, rejected this sequence in his speech in the political committee earlier in the day.

He said the so-called framework law was "neither a law nor a framework."

He denounced France for invoking the threat of Communist infiltration of Algeria as a means of gaining western backing for its policy.

More Christmas Trees

By UNITED PRESS

The Christmas tree market this season is better than was expected. A Penn State extension market specialist says there are a number of large scale buyers looking for spruce, scotch pine, and Douglas fir.

Some buyers want balsam fir, which is not native to Pennsylvania. The marketing specialist suggests that growers take advantage of the favorable marketing situation this year to try to substitute a Pennsylvania species for the balsam fir.

These buyers are looking for lots of 500 trees or more for consumer markets in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other large centers.

Some buyers are looking for limited amounts of bough material from cull or non-marketable trees.

For information on how to contact these large scale buyers, contact your county agent.

U. S. Christmas tree grading went into effect November 1 Grades are expected to improve marketing in several ways. First, they will eliminate cull trees from the market, raising the price for the remaining trees. Also, in combination with price reporting, grading will allow each grower to ship his trees to the best market. Daily prices will be posted on every major city by grade, species, and size.

If a growers local market is depressed, he will be able ship the trees to the better markets. This practice will eliminate scarcities and gluts.

Standard grades will make contracts between growers and buyers more meaningful and binding.

Party Faithful Frown on Stassen In State Poll

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Harold Stassen has been cold-shouldered by Pennsylvania Republican Party officials who have also indicated they would like to see Rep. James E. Van Zandt of Altoona as the party's choice for senator.

In a poll of 300 state GOP chairmen and committee members by The Sunday Bulletin published Sunday, Auditor General Charles C. Smith of Philadelphia and former Secretary of Internal Affairs William S. Livengood of Somerset were practically tied for first place as favorites for the governor nomination.

Stassen, who has bought a home at Valley Forge, Pa., and announced his intention to sound out the party as its nominee for governor, not only failed to win a single vote but came in for some strong—if anonymous—comments.

One chairman wrote "We will work for anyone other than Harold Stassen," the Bulletin reported.

In the balloting for preference for the senate seat, Van Zandt was far ahead of the second choice, GOP state chairman George I Bloom of Washington, Pa. Rep. Hugh D. Scott, of Philadelphia. was third.

Following Smith and Livengood in the balloting for the governor nomination were several possible candidates, all with nearly equal votes. They were W. Stuart Helm of Kittanning. Judge Henry X. O'Brien of Pittsburgh, Theodore Roosevelt 3rd, of Paoli, Judge J Colvin Wright of the state Supreme Court, state Sen. William Z. Scott of Carbon County. and former state treasurer Weldon B. Heyburn of Concordville.

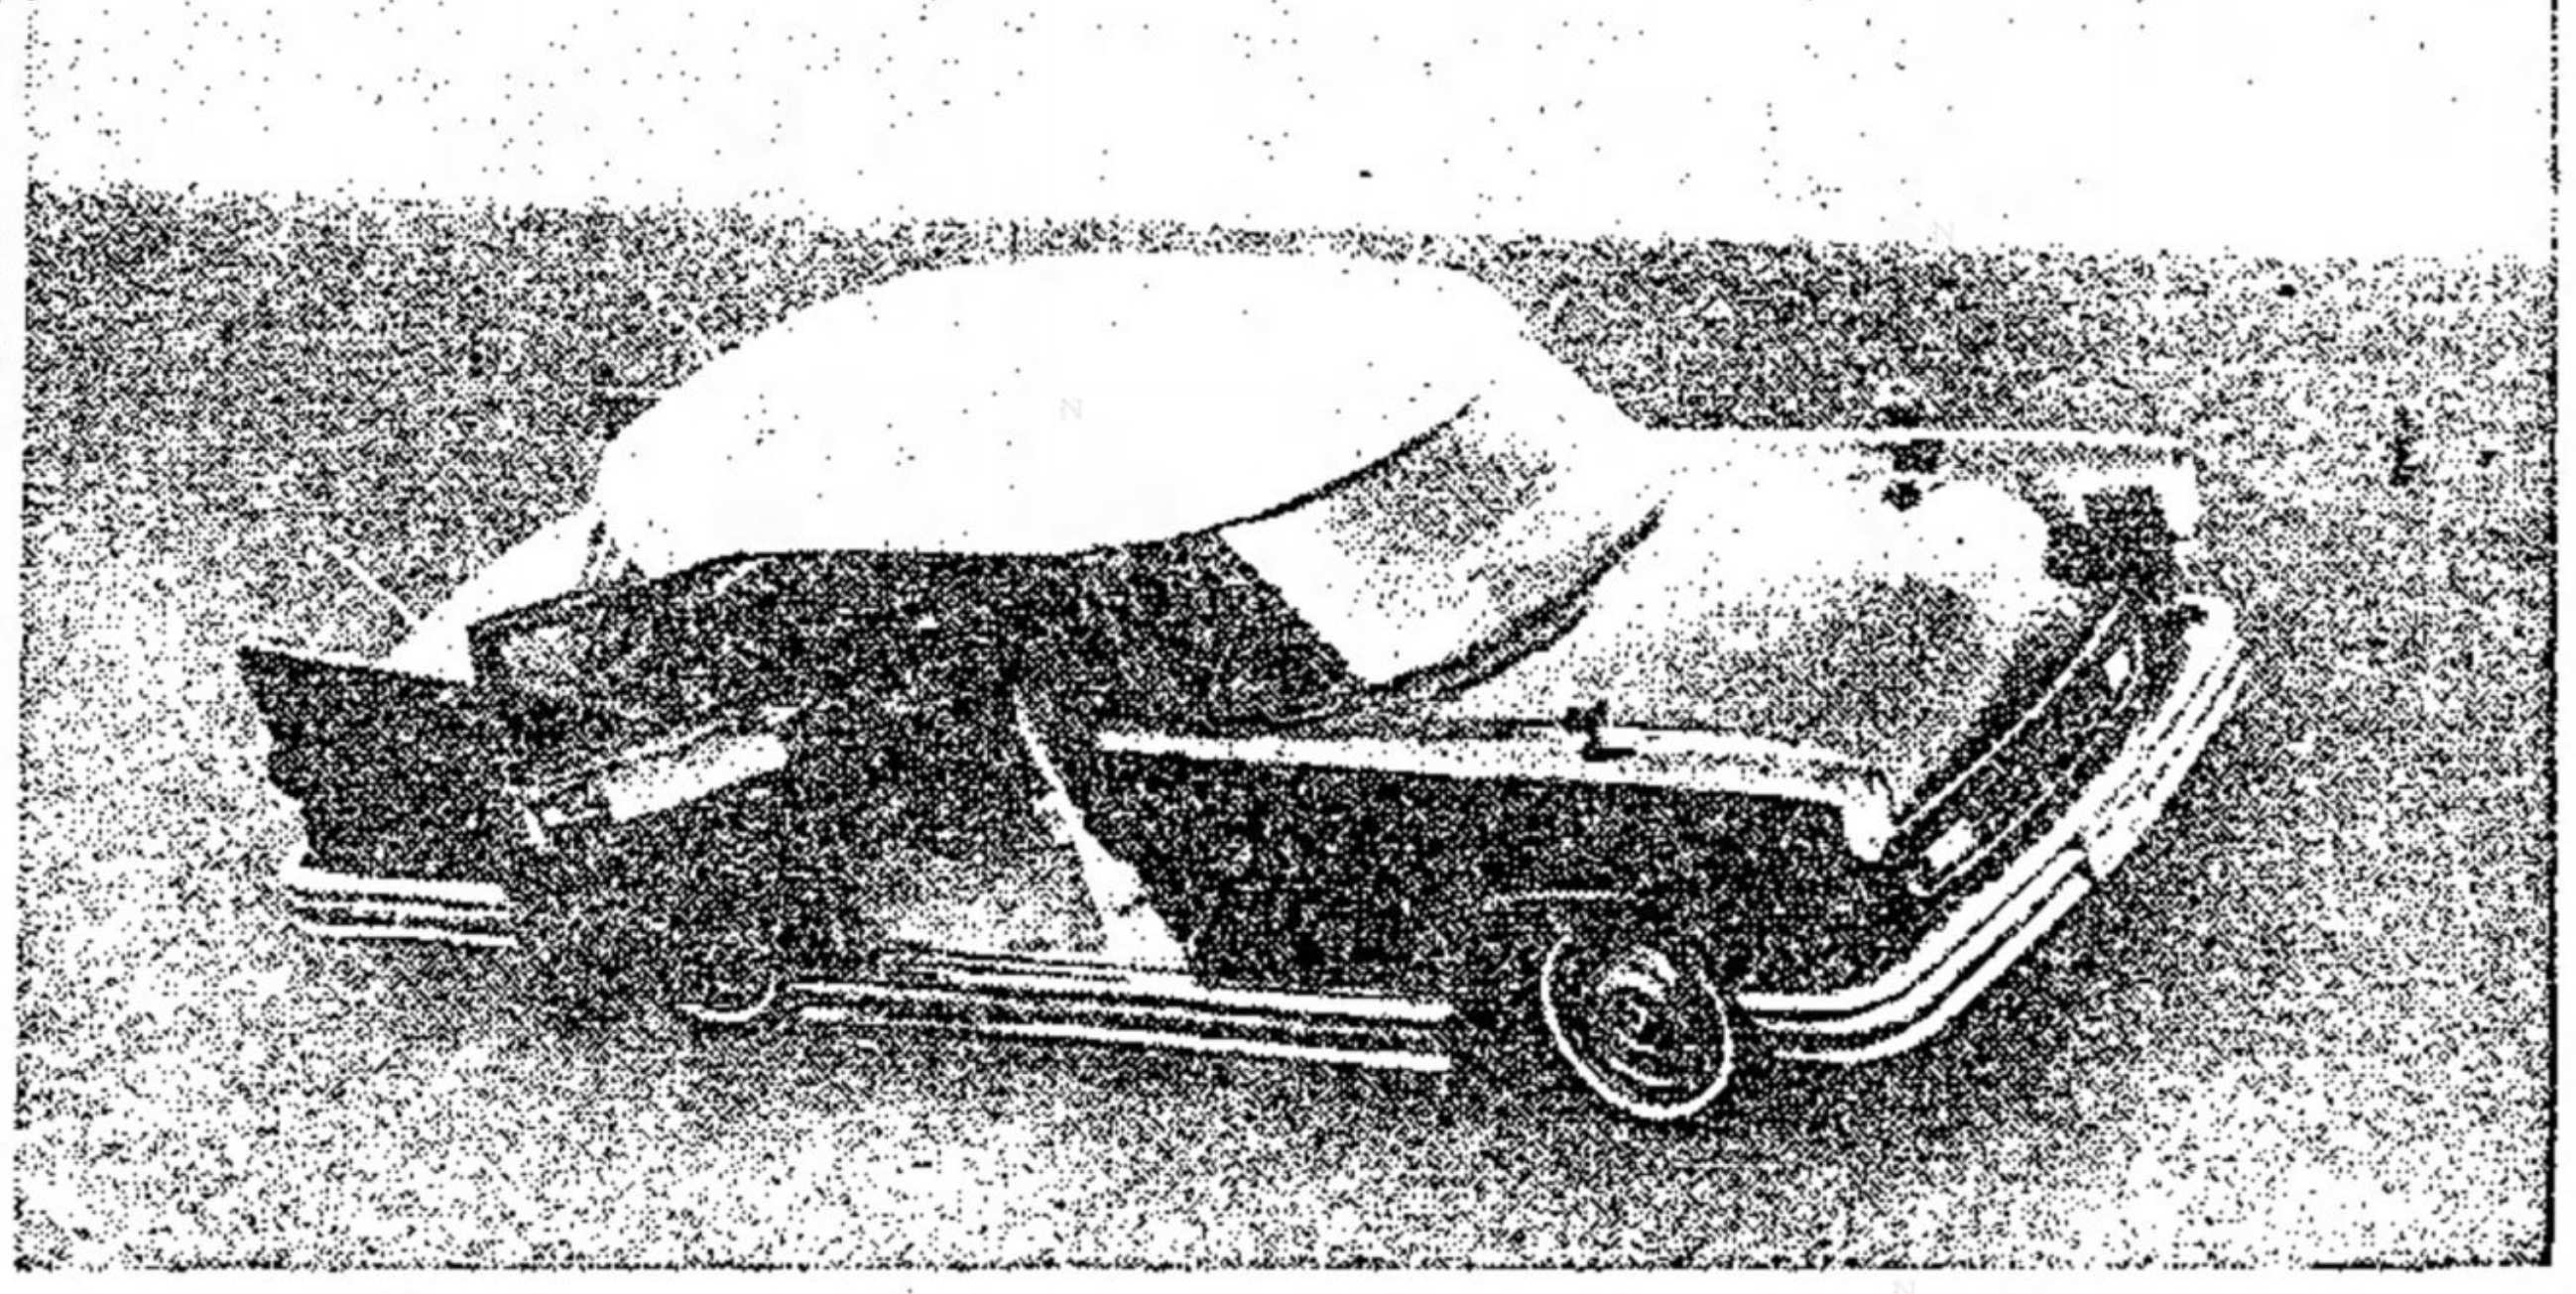
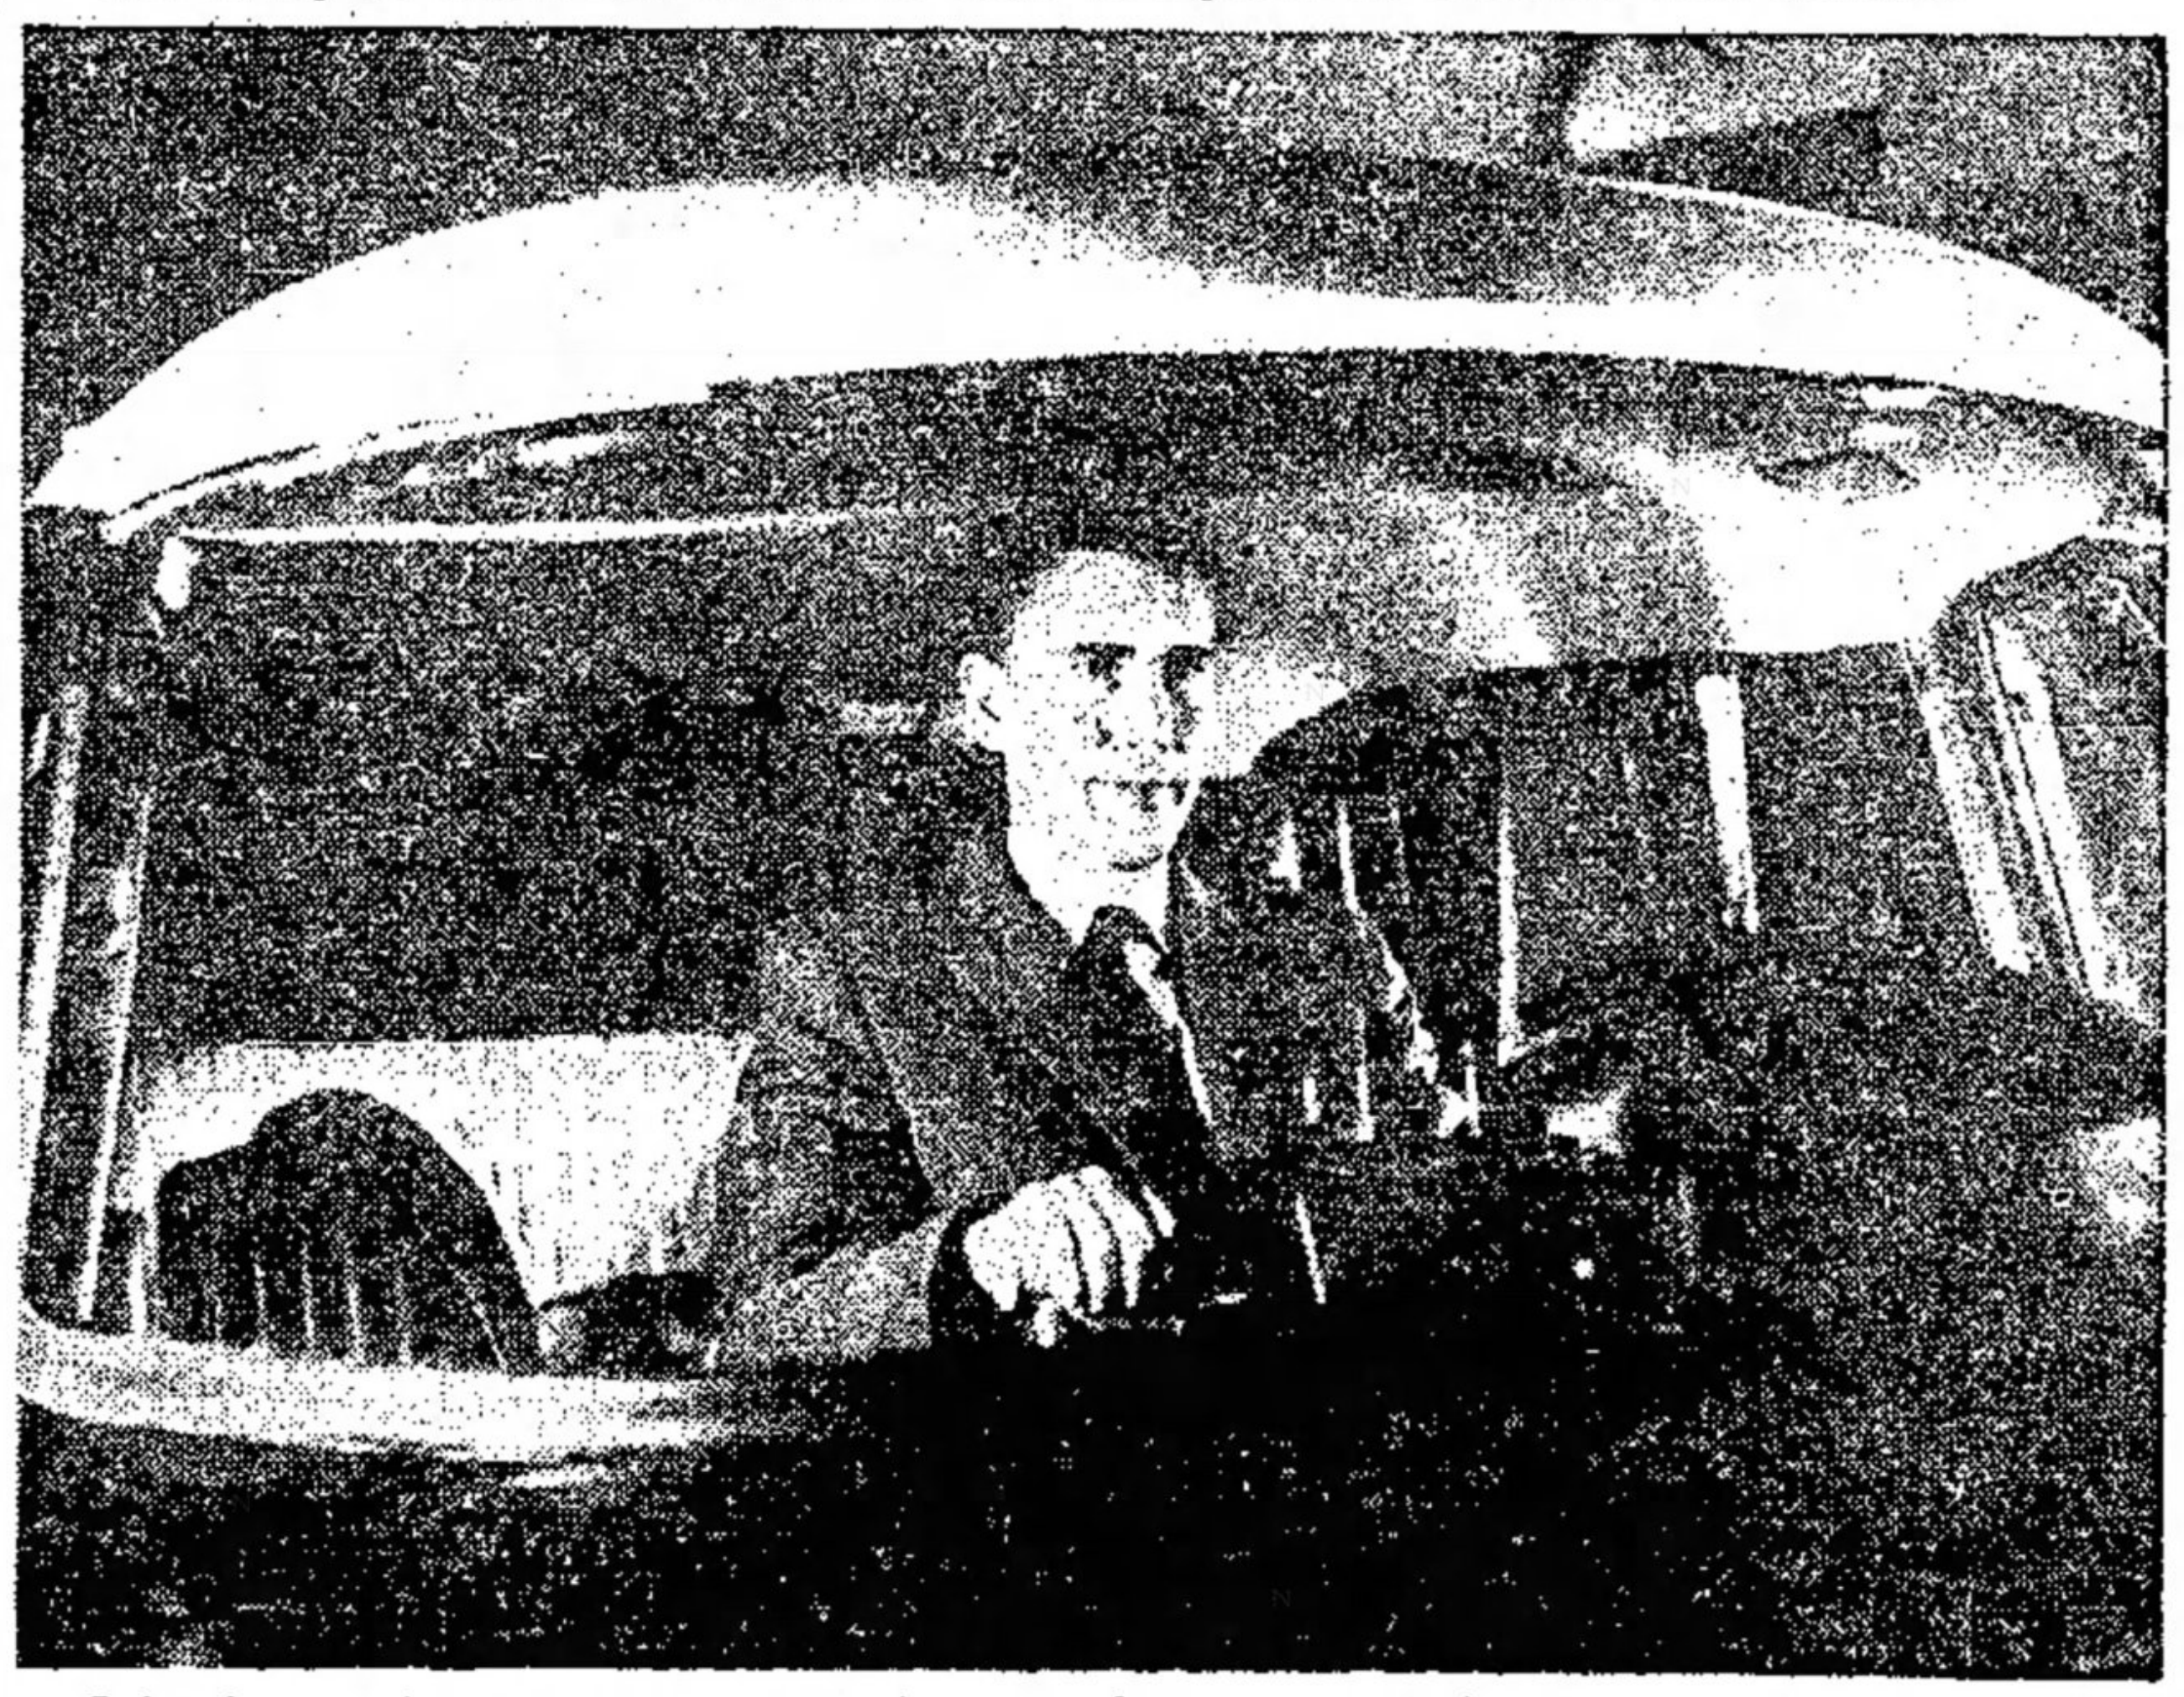
SAFER DRIVING

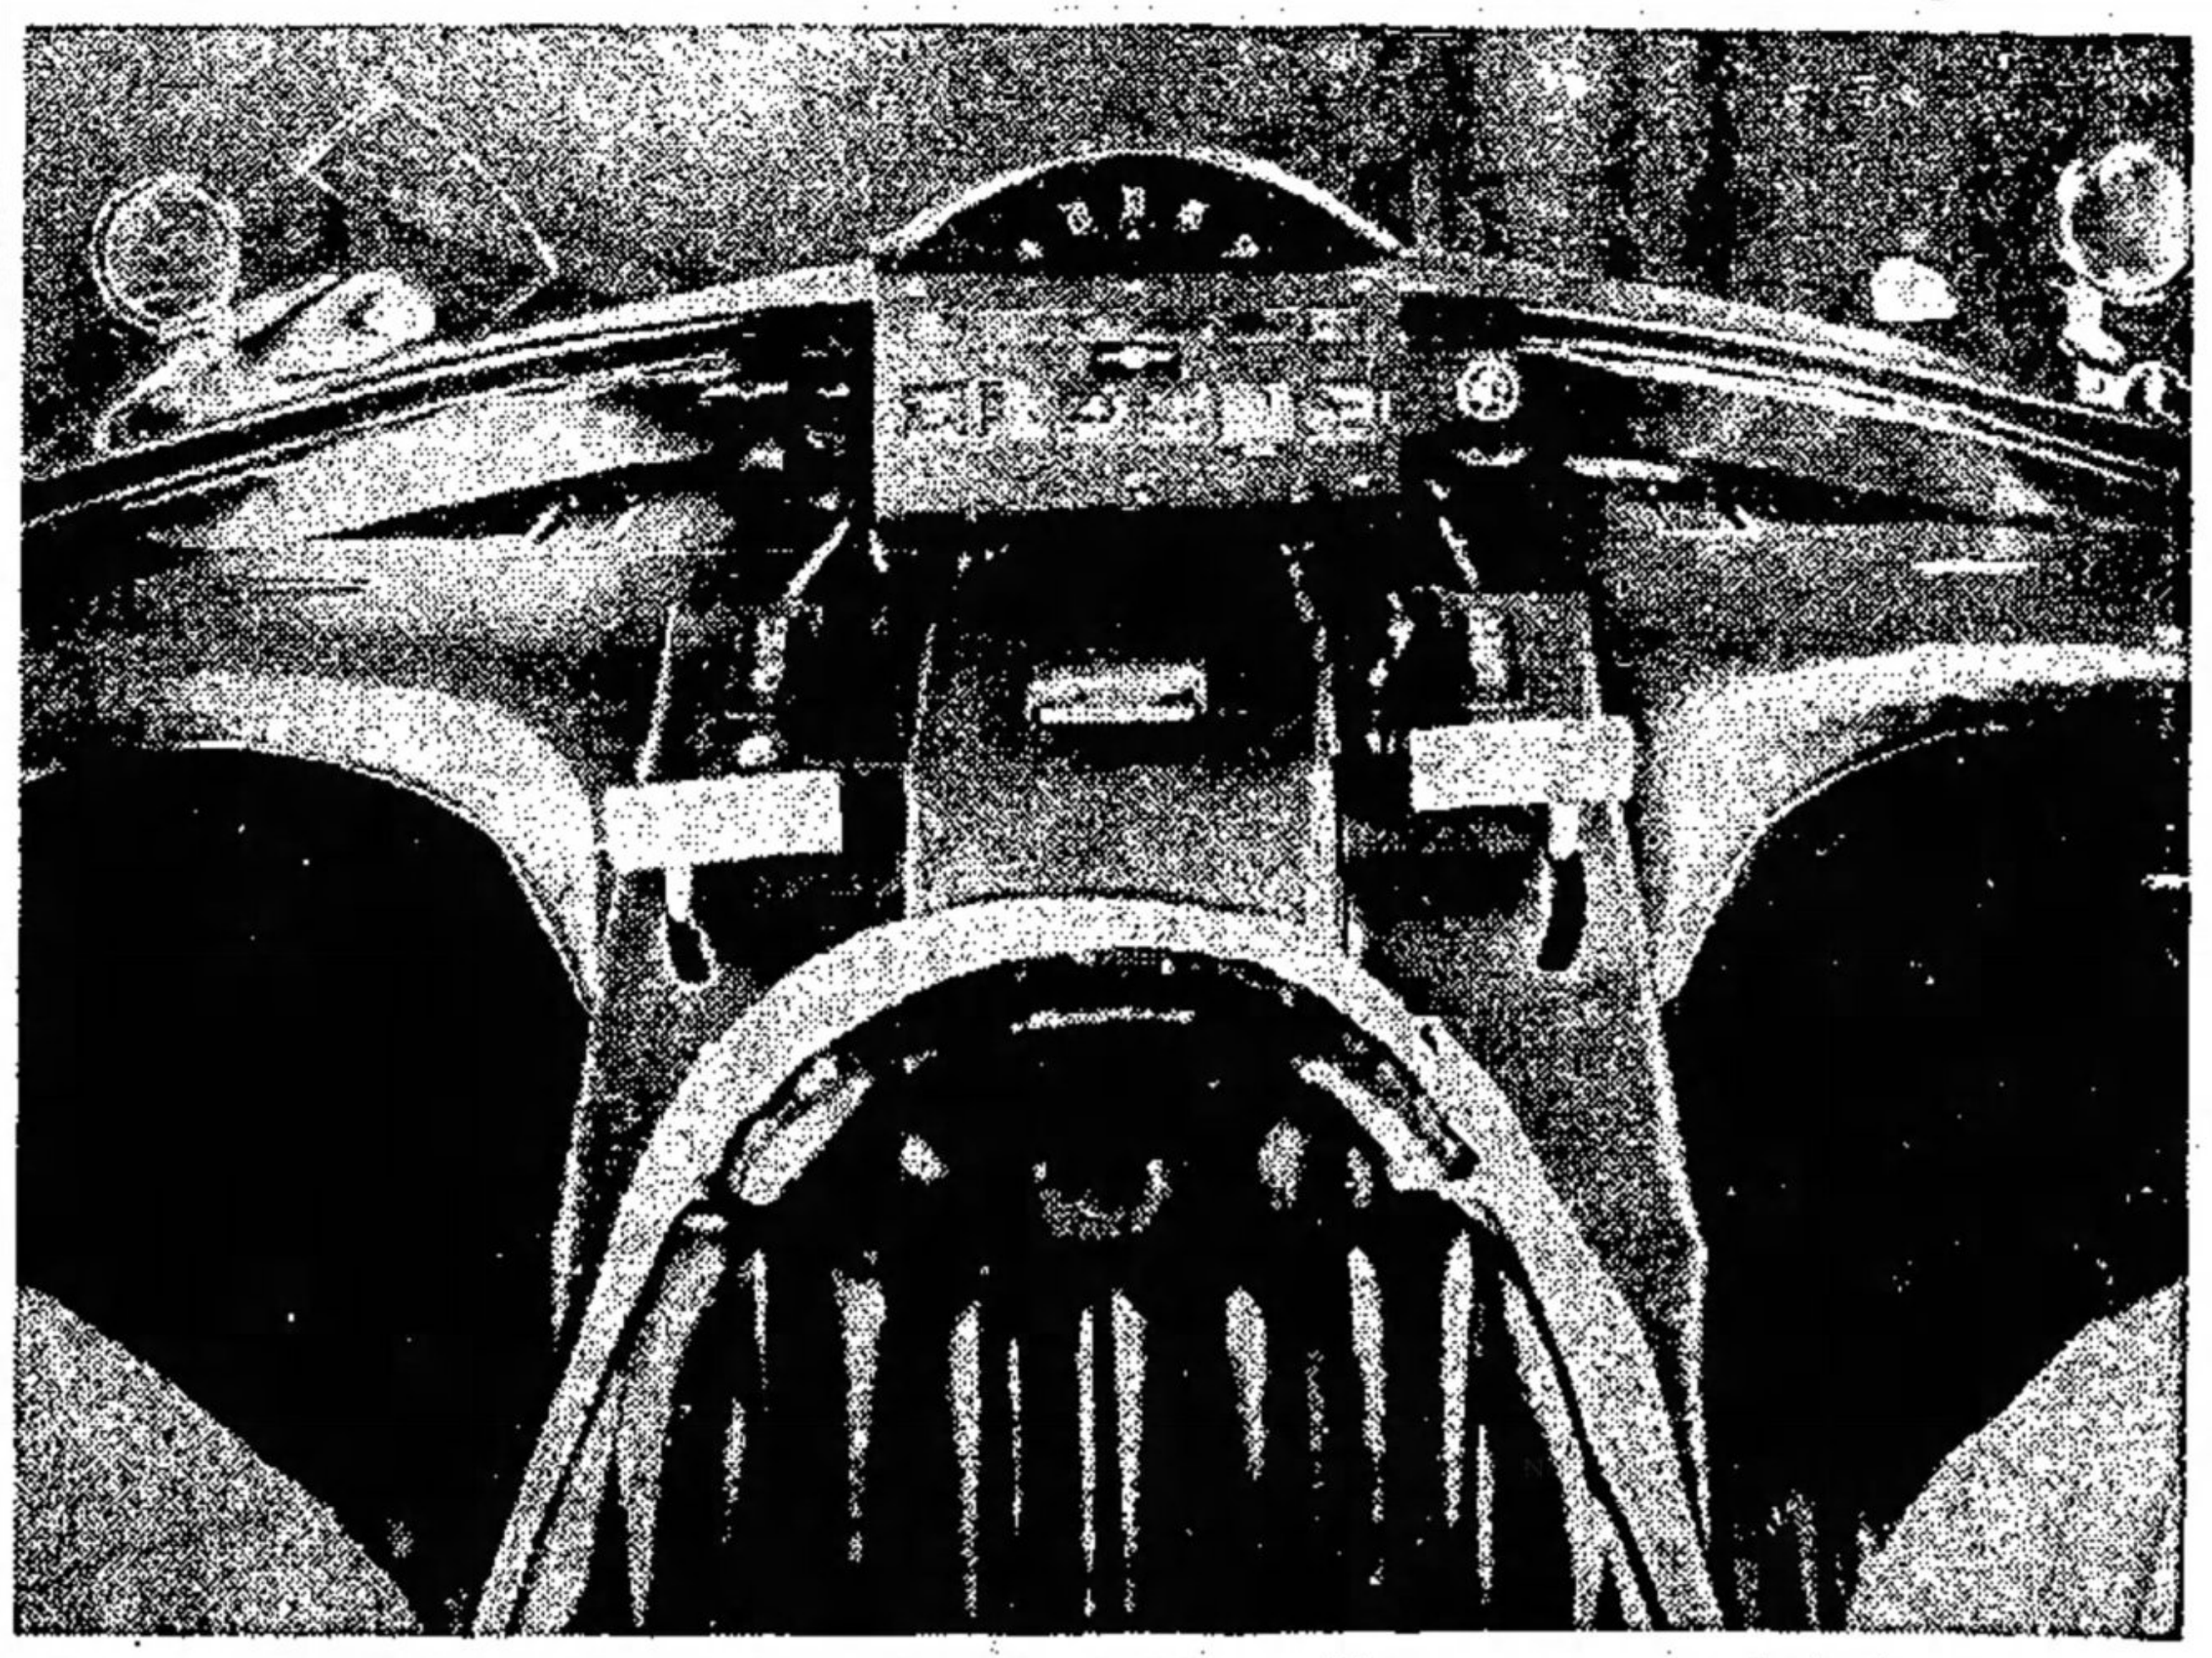


Wrap-around bumpers reduce shock with material between bumpers and plates.

THE NEWEST AUTOMOBILE on the American scene is one that can't be purchased at the neighborhood new car dealer. It is called the Cornell-Liberty Safety Car. Cornell university and Liberty Mutual Insurance company co-operated in designing and building what they call "the world's first automobile with the safety of the occupants as the sole objective." Basic plan behind the car is to "package" human beings the way fragile merchandise is packed to prevent damage. Besides stronger body and seat belts, the car uses a pair of handles in place of the steering wheel. The driver sits in a protected, center position, flanked by passengers whose bucket seats are three inches behind his and three inches lower. U-shaped webbing yokes hold the driver and front passenger in their seats. A pull-up headrest protects against head injuries in case of collision. The designers are ready to share the results of their five years of research with Detroit.



Driver's seat in center gives 180 degrees of vision. Handles are for steering.



Pull-up headrest (center foreground) protects driver. Note two steering handles.

Productivity Gains Must Be Stepped Up

NEW YORK (UP) — Prentice-Hall has projected the nation's population figures through 1970. It will increase 24 per cent between 1955 and that date.

There'll be shifts and variations in the birth rates that will keep the statisticians jumping.

And when the final figures are toted up the results will show that there'll be big gains at each end of the age section — kids and old people, all of which leads Prentice-Hall to ask:

"Who'll be left to do the work?"

"A relatively declining labor force will have to support a larger share of youngsters and oldsters over the next 13 years," P-H says.

Step Up Productivity

"Thus to maintain a continually rising standard of living, our productivity gains will have to be stepped up."

That authority says if we can add just another 0.3 per cent to our productivity, we can absorb the decline in the labor force. It sees other gains through labor saving equipment and automation.

And this automation is going to be spread out to non-productive areas such as transport, office work, materials handling and the service industries.

The business world looks for a lot of business from the increased population at all levels of the age figure. And right here is the difference between our population rise to new heights and the populations of some backward nations such as China where vast numbers of people have made more problems than anything else.

According to the latest P-H figures, the West will get the biggest share of the increased labor force. The Northeast will feel the worst effects of the declining percentage of workers.

Biggest labor force gainers from 1955 through 1970 in the West include Arizona, 62 per cent; Nevada, 59 per cent; Washington, 38 per cent; and Colorado, 30 per cent.

Big gainers in other parts of the country for the 18-64 year old age group include Florida, 49 per cent; Maryland, 37 per cent; Delaware 35 per cent, and Michigan, 32 per cent.

Industry has been stepping up its plants to handle these increased population figures and will be ready to do the job when the time comes, the experts anticipate.

Give Electric Gifts For Electric Living

When you suddenly realize that Christmas is only a matter of days away and your shopping list has a question mark after several names, why don't you consider some of the new electric appliances that are on display in the stores?

You'll find that electric housewares are the easy answer to "what to give" — and the giver is blessed every day for his convenience and help.

For instance, today's small portable electric mixers are worth their labor-saving weight in gold! They do countless food tasks easier and quicker than can be done by hand. They're light in weight, easy to handle, and have a selection of speeds for beating eggs, whipping cream or mashing potatoes, making icings or mixing batters and doughs. They come in pastel shades and can be kept on a convenient hanger or stored in a kitchen drawer.

Do you know a family with youngsters that clamor for milk shakes or soft drink mixes at all hours of the day? A home size blender or drink mixer would make them mighty happy. Quite professional soda fountain drinks can easily be prepared right at home with one of these gadgets. If Johnny spurns his daily milk quota, he'll really go for a fancy mixture whipped up in the blender. It's perfect for aerating frozen fruit juices, too.

An ideal gift for a young couple — or any family — is an electric fryer, or combination electric cooker and deep-fat fryer. When used as a cooker, it's ideal for baked beans, soups, stews, chili, pot roast, or fricasseed chicken. It can also be used for deep fat frying such foods as French fried potatoes or onions, cutlets, doughnuts, fritters, fish, shrimp, oysters, or scallops.

Clare Boothe Luce Honored For Leadership

NEW YORK (UP)—Clare Boothe Luce, playwright, onetime Congresswoman and former U.S. Ambassador to Italy, was named today as the recipient of the third annual Cordell Hull award for leadership in building U.S. foreign economic policy.

The award, to be presented at a public rally Dec. 10 at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, is sponsored by the Committee on Foreign Trade Education, Inc. It commemorates former Secretary of State Cordell Hull who in 1934 introduced the Reciprocal Trades Agreements Program, designed to expand this country's trade with other nations by the reciprocal reduction of high tariffs and other barriers.

Previous recipients of the award are Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) and Paul G. Hoffman, former administrator of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Andrew Rohar, who died two years ago, December 1, 1955.

The rolling stream of life rolls on,
And still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there.
It is lonesome here without you,
And sad the weary way
For life is not the same to us
Since you were called away.
Sadly missed by Children and Grandchildren.

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Mrs. Marion Kurdilla Susick, who died seven years ago today, December 3, 1950 and our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Stephen Kurdilla, who died March 14, 1949.

It is lonesome here without our daughter and mother,
And sad the weary way,
For life is not the same to us
Since they were called away.
Gone from us their smiling faces,
Those carefree happy ways,
The hearts that won so many friends
In bygone happy days.
Sadly missed by Stephen Kurdilla and Family.

Big Transport Has Troubles

HONOLULU (UP)—A military Air Transport Service C-97 carrying 62 persons limped back about 200 miles to Hickam Air Force Base Monday night on two faulty engines.

The Air Force said the four-engine plane, which left Hickam on a flight to Travis Air Force Base, Calif., made "what amounted to a routine landing" shortly before 12 a.m. c.s.t. this morning with "one engine feathered and a second acting up."

The C-97, a military version of the Boeing Stratocruiser, carried 54 passengers and a crew of eight. The pilot reported the plane was in trouble when it was about 200 miles out over the Pacific Ocean.

Reds Have Book On Atomic Aviation

MOSCOW (UP)— The Soviet Ministry of Defense has published a book on atom-powered aircraft, but it makes no claim Russia is ahead in this field. The book, "Application of Atomic Motors in Aviation," explains principles and problems connected with the design and construction of atom-powered planes, both in the Soviet Union and abroad. The book says the majority of foreign scientists forecast the first flight of an atom-powered plane in 1959-1960. It makes no prediction of its own.

Girard Packs; Japan Plans no Further Appeal

TOKYO (UP)— Army S3C William S. Girard, freed by a Japanese court in the fatal shooting of a Japanese woman, packed up today to go home to Illinois with his Japanese wife for Christmas.

He was free to leave Japan after Japanese prosecutors announced they would not appeal the suspended sentence given him for manslaughter.

The 22-year-old Ottawa, Ill., soldier and Haru (Candy) Sueyama Girard, the 29-year-old Japanese divorcee he married last July while awaiting trial were tentatively scheduled to sail for the United States on a military transport on Friday.

Girard was elated at the prosecution decision not to appeal the case. "I feel good all over," he said. Japanese and U.S. officials were relieved. Opposition Japanese Socialists and the daughter of the woman Girard killed were incensed.

The announcement brought an end to the controversial case that began last Jan. 30 when Girard fired a cartridge case from the grenade launcher on his rifle and killed Mrs. Naka Sakai, 46, a metal scavenger, at the Camp Weir firing range.

Steel Industry Makes Case for Price Increase

NEW YORK (UP)—America's steel industry would have gone more than 21 billion dollars in the red if it had granted wage increases without raising steel prices over the last decade, the Saturday Evening Post said today.

In an editorial entitled "The CIO Formula on Steel Prices Would Mean Bankruptcy," the magazine reported that the industry's losses in 1955 and 1956 together would have been at least equal to the entire sum spent by the industry for its postwar expansion.

"Of course, none of this could have actually happened, the magazine noted, "since the whole industry would have been bankrupt long before it could have accumulated a deficit of this size."

Wants to Curb Powers of Ike

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. Arthur Winstead (D-Miss.) said he is drafting legislation to prohibit the President from calling National Guard units into federal service except in time of war, national emergency or under special authority of Congress.

"Since the President has seen fit to call forth more than 9,800 members of the National Guard of the state of Arkansas in order to force integration of nine Negro high school students, I feel that this type of legislation is imperative," Winstead said in a statement.

Winstead said the government has spent more than two million dollars so far to keep the Arkansas Negro students in school.

Too Realistic

CARNIKE, England (UP) — Inhabitants of this Cornish village complained today that civil defense workers were too realistic when they signalled the start of a civil defense exercise by touching off an explosion to simulate a "misguided" nuclear missile. The explosion shattered the windows of the post office, Methodist church, and the ceilings and windows of several private dwellings. It also scared the daylights out of the villagers.

Allergies Plague Us All Year

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

About 17,000,000 Americans have an allergy of one sort or another.

For most of them, the winter months mean happy relief from sneezing, wheezing, gasping for breath, scratching and all the other miseries of allergies. But for some, winter weather still brings trouble.

Asthma victims, particularly, are bothered by cold weather, for cold air is an irritant.

I think most of you who have asthma realize this when you step out of a warm room into the cold of winter. You're apt to feel a tightening up in your chest.

Cold also troubles victims of other allergies. Those who are hypersensitive to cold may suffer skin eruptions. Even more serious, they may suffer general shock.

Believe it or not, the first frost does not always mean that hay fever sufferers can stop worrying. Far from it.

Many persons are allergic to molds as well as pollen. In fact, next to pollen, molds cause more hay fever and asthma than any other allergen.

If you are exceptionally sensitive to molds, you'll have complete relief only when the ground is frozen and covered with snow.

Warm and dry spells, even during winter, mean that the wind may whip up enough dust containing mold spores to bring on symptoms of your allergy.

Winter or summer, there always is the danger that your own home contains enough allergens to bring about an attack.

House dust is a chief source of allergy trouble. And I don't see how you can escape that even in the most meticulously kept household.

Then, too, dogs, cats and other pets may produce allergic symptoms no matter what the season.

Finally, few of us are completely free from worry and stress situations. And I have told you often in the past how such complications can aggravate asthma, eczema, hives and other allergies.

Unfortunately, some allergies are with some of us summer and winter.

In Hollywood—

Shirley Jones Slims Down in New Career

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Movieland's greatest disappearing act features Shirley Jones, the blonde nifty who starred in the biggest movie musicals of all time — "Oklahoma" and "Carousel" — and then vanished as if through a trap door.

Touted for stardom and riches, Shirley's bovine good looks left the public cold. For more than a year after completing "Carousel" (which laid an egg) Shirley was just another one of the Jones girls. A flash in the pan.

She couldn't get a walk-on in a Bowery Boy epic.

Now Shirley's back in business with Pat Boone in a new picture and her career is on the upgrade once again.

How come?

"I've lost my baby fat," Shirley answers frankly.

Apple-Cheeked, Corn Fed

"I used to be apple - cheeked and corn-fed. The milk maid type isn't stylish any more, and I looked as if I'd just left the farm. It's a disadvantage for a girl to appear well-fed these days."

To compete with the Audrey Hepburns and Ann Blyths, Shirley has lost seven pounds. Doesn't sound like much, but she's also managed to rearrange her curves.

Two years ago her measurements were 36-24-36. Now she's slimmed down to a less buxom 34-21-35.

(Shirley is a former Smithton girl and a graduate of South Huntingdon Twp. High School. Her parents now live in Pittsburgh.)

Shirley Jones

"I was only 19 years old when I made "Oklahoma," she laughed, "and I still had some of that teenage chubbiness. I didn't have much acting experience, either.

Theater, TV Preparation

"Since then I've studied drama and worked in New York theater and TV to help prepare me for the movies.

"I'm grateful to Rodgers and Hammerstein for those two big pictures, but there were problems, too. They typed me so much it was impossible for producers to see me in anything but a musical comedy.

"It's a wonder I didn't disappear altogether after 'Carousel.' But thank goodness I had faith and confidence in myself to keep trying."

Having finished "April Love" with Boone, Shirley now is starring with Jimmy Cagney in "Never Steal Anything Small" at Universal-International.

"This part doesn't call for me to wear period costumes with those horrible full skirts and high necklines," Shirley exclaimed. "No wonder I looked like a peasant girl. Those outfits never gave me a chance to show off a curve anyhow."

World of TV—

Actress Tired of Movieland

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—The lettuce is green in the movies, but greener still is the grass of television—as far as Piper Laurie is concerned.

It was late in 1955 that Miss Laurie, a hazel-eyed beauty from Detroit, decided to bust out of her long-term contract with Universal-International in Hollywood. She was earning $1500 a week, but getting nowhere fast playing a succession of sweet roles in sour pictures.

"They called me a movie star, but I always turned my head the other way in embarrassment when I heard the term," said Miss Laurie as she took dainty sips of tea. She had just been sprung from rehearsals of "Twelfth Night," a Shakespearean romp that NBC-TV will deliver on Dec. 15. She looked troubled.

Never a Real Star

"In my mind, I never was a real movie star. I don't think having your name over a picture makes you a movie star. I think there are very few real movie stars anyway — I'd say a half-dozen," she said softly, almost inaudibly.

"I've always wanted to be an actress for as long as I can remember. You know, I worked hard for a couple of years with a group of professional actors before I even went into pictures.

"But I simply fell into a trap in Hollywood. I have no excuse for it except I was terribly young and naive. I don't think I can be blamed for the image that publicity made of me, but I was responsible for doing a succession of bad jobs in bad pictures."

After a six - year association, Miss Laurie left her studio. She was 23 at the time. "Some people applauded me for what they called my courage, integrity and wisdom, but my reasons weren't noble at all," sighed Miss Laurie. "My reasons were simple—I wanted to be a good actress and I wasn't getting a chance to become one.

Never Be Ashamed Again

"Perhaps I was too stupid to recognize the insecurities of going out on my own. But when I left Universal I swore one thing — I wouldn't work in anything I would be ashamed of again."

Six months after her break, Miss Laurie found a part—in a TV show, her first. "It was a Robert Montgomery program," she recalled, "not a very big part and not an outstanding script, but it did have one scene in it I wanted very much to play. A scene that gave me a chance to act."

Margie Overand Is Leader at Fellowship Meet

The Youth Fellowship Class of Fells Methodist Church met Sunday at the church with Margie Overand as devotional leader. Her topic was "Why People Drink". Arlene Fisher was pianist.

Reorganization of Rostraver School Board Delayed

Rostraver Twp. School Board called off its reorganization meeting last night when three directors went deer hunting and a fourth was reported ill.

Under law, all School Boards in Pennsylvania are required to organize the first Monday in December. However, the law carries no penalty. Consequently, it is often ignord.

Superintendent of Schools E. F. Carter said the Board will probably convene next Monday.

Carter explained that the absent members made it impossible to have a quorum at last night's session.

Class Meeting

Th J.I.M. Class of Pricedale Union Church will hold its Christmas party Friday at 6:30 p. m. at the church recreation hall.

Reservations must be made immediately. Persons are requested to contact Mrs. Clarence Bush or Mrs. George Baldwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bush and daughter, Marilyn, were Pittsburgh callers Saturday.

Voice of Kremlin—

Western European Radio Fires Opening Salvoes in Idea War

(Second of Three Dispatches.)

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UP) — At first light every day radio transmitters in Western Europe fire the opening salvoes in a war of ideas.

The target is the minds of men and woman just rousing from their beds behind the Iron Curtain.

Soon after the Western transmitters test the ionized layer of the atmosphere to determine fighting conditions for the day, the transmitters in the Communist capitals swing into counter-action at the later-waking West.

Most powerful in the Red camp is Radio Moscow. Its general headquarters is a five-story yellow stucco building in Pushkin Square only 10 minutes walk from the Kremlin and off-limits to foreigners.

Work Around Clock

There engineers, reporters, announcers, editors and musicians (their number a classified subject) work around the clock. They broadcast in 47 languages and dialects perfectly attuned to accents and idiom. Most of the announcers are foreign-born Russians or Soviet citizens educated abroad.

Their greatest field of battle is Western Europe Like a futuristic artillery duel they engage the West — the Eastern transmitters jamming with squeaks and squeals the efforts of the free world to get across its message.

Lined up on opposite sides are:

West: Voice of America (U.S. government sponsored); British Broadcasting Corporation; Radio Free Europe (American-financed); Radio Rias (State Department operated in American sector of Germany); Radio Liberation (another American - financed transmitter beamed to Russia) and Radio Vatican (primarily designed to spread the views of the Catholic Church but effectively anti-Communist.)

Communist: Radio Moscow and the national radios of Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Albania. Yugoslav Radio (although it does not wholly follow the Russian line' and Polish Radio (which also has significantly departed from time to time). Also Red China's Radio Peiping.

It is a struggle in which thousands of men are involved on each side including the most ingenious radio engineers. It is a "war" in which hundreds of millions of dollars are spent each year. But then the stakes are high—there are 270 million radio receivers in the world.

And Russia is willing to spend as much as $12 for every one the West spends. This is the cost of jamming the Western programs and sending out its own.

The West does not jam Russian, Chinese or satellite broadcasts and hence is somewhat in the position of a man with one hand tied behind his back fighting a resourceful, two-handed opponent. But the West believes it has an incomparable ally whose value becomes more apparent with every passing day—the truth!

On the other hand, many Americans may not realize the venom that Radio Moscow pours into its foreign broadcasts about the United States. The violence in Little Rock gave it the opportunity to turn the poison on full stream. Here is an excerpt from a broadcast to West Germany:

Next: Washington's assessment of Moscow Radio's effectiveness.

Spanish moss is not a true moss, but is a flowering plant that really belongs to the pineapple family.
